"... it is surely right to stress how much all members of the College owe to those who contribute in their several ways to the smooth running of this institution."

Mr. Bedard's Headmaster Speech '94

Since St. Andrew's College is an 'educational institution', we must have a teaching faculty. However, S.A.C. does not have just any teaching staff....the best way to describe them is that they are much like strawberries where only the ripest, the cream-of-the-crop, are hand-picked. This year marks the departure of a few key staff, who, (unlike strawberries that are discarded when they become rotten), have decided to dedicate themselves to searching for the perfect swing on the golf course and will be greatly missed.

With John Delfin leading the way, the Class of '94's Prefects started the year with a bang by touring the Toronto girls schools to promote Homecoming - which turned out to be one of the best in recent memory! Tim Horton joined this talented group half-way through the year, and brought with him some creativity and desire. Rich Rabnett's social skills proved invaluable to our cause. This year's Prefects proved to be very innovative, and led the school through an organized and profitable year. A special thank-you goes to Mr. Foy whose knowledge and experience were almost as indispensable as Bonnell's note-taking! Ha! Ha! Just kidding! Thank-you Mr. Foy, you helped it go smoother. A big hug goes to Ben Lo, however hard he tried to become one, he still wasn't prefect. Good luck to next year's leaders!

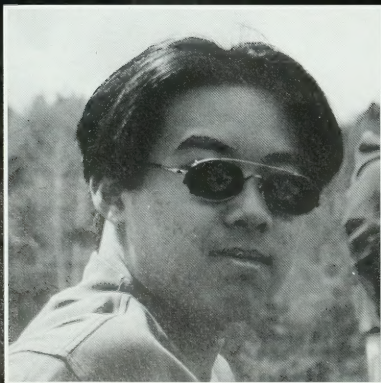

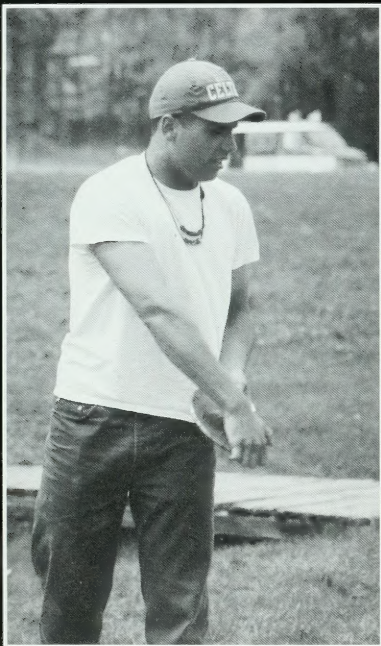

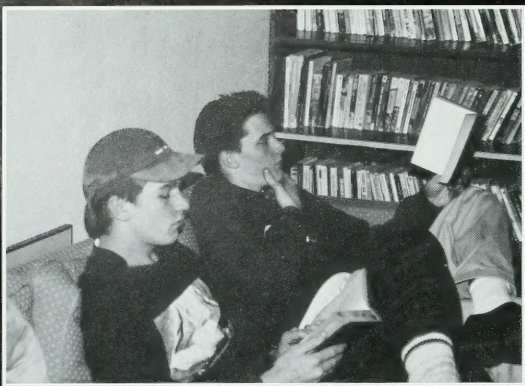

Ian Cragg

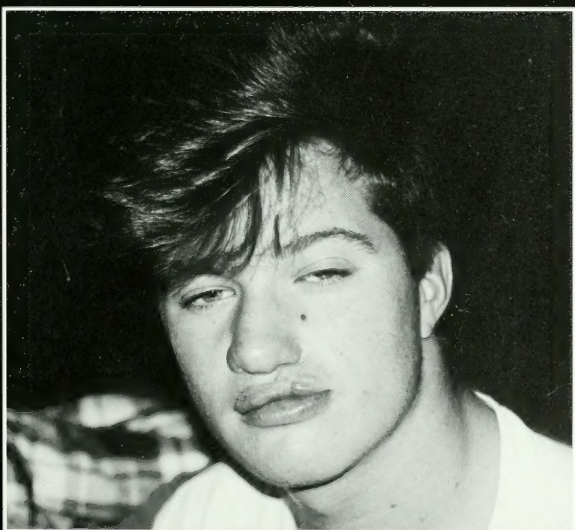

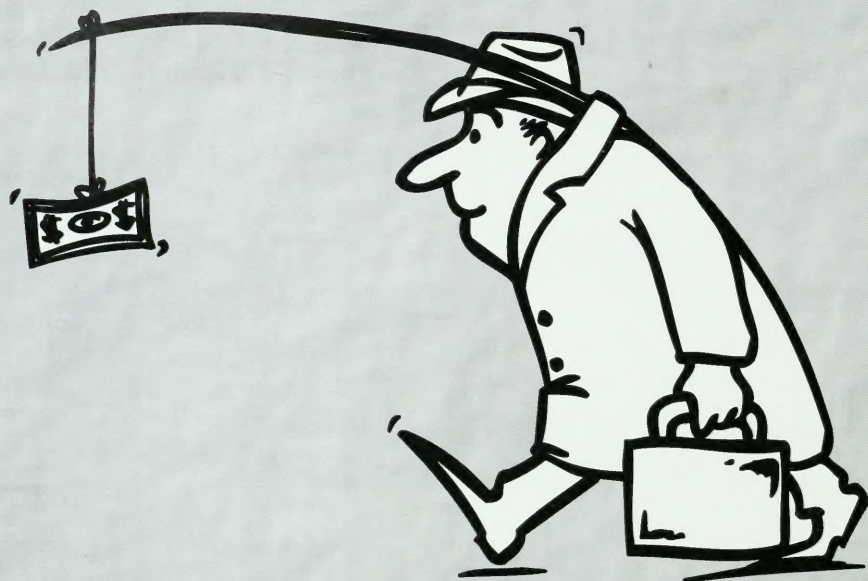

Being a prefect is a privilege very overlooked by many. It is a job that if you intend to do well you must be very organized and committed. Many think that being a prefect is a superficial name tag that allows you to power trip; but in fact, prefects play a very important role. As a group, it requires a strong leader - or leaders as is the case this coming year - who is able to take charge and to delegate power. A prefect must have time to give, and also take charge when required. The hardest part of being a prefect is being "tough" around your peers. The most important thing about being a prefect is that you realize your opportunity, get organized, and make it fun for yourself and the rest of the school. Good Luck!

So what was the reason for university again?

Kurt R. Alfrey (1066-94)

Ramsey House

Nicknames: Winston, Ronald, Blizz, Commander.

Activities: Drums and Pipes, Bass Drummer; Scholar; Debating; Co-President of SAC Mountaineering; SOMA; Yearbook committee (Grad Ed.); Seven Year Club; Soccer; Skiing; (Dave, you know where to find me if you need lessons); On campus crash team (MVP).

Sayings: "Now that's a nasty mental picture." "I could spread so much joy if I had a hand-grenade right now." "Let us bask in their ignorance!" "I say, shall we Dis' them?" "Hello Will, recognize my tire-tracks?" "Havergalians! If they're not passed out on the floor with exhaustion, they're too busy to call you back!"

In 1987 I dropped my mirror and entered St. Andrew's; now it's time to pick up the pieces. If you're reading this comment in search of advice then it's definitely too late to help you, but if you're one of those peasants who believes in milking a dead cow then all I can offer you is this small gem of information. Don't worry about failure because Will is going to buy us all anyway! That's it. Sorry if you're disappointed, but there are no refunds, that's another thing SAC taught me.

Thanks to Ben for the gold, Will for my lawnscape, KY & Dave, Jay for the ditch parties, Josh for calling, Glaze for watering the trees, Dan for being Dan and everyone else who tipped a glass with me over the years. While "Sir" is no longer a facet of my vocabulary in some cases it should be; thanks to all the teachers who helped me through the years, especially Mr. Scouler and Mr. Myrans, trust me I'll keep in touch. Robyn, thanks for being there, we rocked the world and now it's time for me to see it, I'll never forget you. To all my friends your next trip to England is the price of an airfare, look me up. My parents and sister for cheering me on, I love you all. I hate goodbyes but King's is calling and missing the boat just isn't my style.

Leo A. Arhanic (1989-1994)

Flavelle House

Nicknames: Quad, Leonard, Sancho, Slacker, Gortex-Man, Leonard, Last Minute Leo

Activities: France, Fast tracker, Cuba, Russia, House Captain, Nordic Skiing, Football, Rugby, Boxing with Skipper, 1st Clan Colours, Tea with Parker, Caffeine happiness club with Worry, Triple Spans Club, Soma (3a), ISDF (2a), Nepal Expedition, Bio Cram Union, President of the Debating Society (5a), captain of Flavelle House, Co-Founder of the Ego Maniac Club with VCP, Indoor golf with Kempe, musicals (5a), Shakespeare (1a), FOCUS (3a)

Sayings: Neil, can you edit this?; So Haks, flipping burgers with Deb tonight? Relax Parker, I wasn't really flirting with her. No guys, I don't have the car till next week. Is Neil on the phone with Nadia, AGAIN? Who left the door open, we only had 5 rows left!; Wha'd the cop say about the power tools Chrs? Moose pleas sorry me mud chicken??? ZIM ZAM!

When I first arrived at SAC I felt at home. St. Andrew's let me dabble in every possible aspect of student life. I even managed to leave a mark on one of those burgundy plaques. Most importantly though, SAC has developed a very independent streak in me. At various times this independence has clashed with my mentors, my friends, and my family. And I thank them for putting up with me when times got rough. I thank my parents for the effort it took to believe in me, and the money it took to fund my escapades. As for my teachers, to those who supported me, even when I was doing it all wrong, I won't let you down. To CAP, you showed me who I am...and inspired me to be more. To the guys, we'll move on, but we'll not be forgotten. And finally to my big bro, I love you man, thanks for it all, and remember, believe in yourself and people will believe in you.

Next year: Queens or sailing the world.

Kevin P. K. Armstrong (1993-94)

Memorial House

Nicknames: Cheezy, Kev, Mooch

Sayings: Dan! Serious talk! Oh Rasshole!

Activities: 1st Sleep; 1st Chapel skipping (MIP) (with comrade and partner Bugu (MVP)); 1st Telephone Operator.

Well, what can I say, I have made it to the end. My short year at SAC has flown by, and I look back wishing it to start all over again. I must first thank my parents for this opportunity, without their encouragement and sacrifice I would not be where I am today. I cannot say that I won't miss this place, for it would be a lie. The school has taught me many things during my stay here. One of these things, possibly the most important, is the value of friendship. Without the great fellas that I am proud to call my friends, I could not have learned to accept this school or country. Fortunately for me there are people in this world like Bugu, Emilio, Christie, Tito, Rattie, Bigga, Ducks, Gino, Bubbles, Bups, Beetle, Cozier, Wayne, and Shaggy. Last but not least, I must thank Mr. Bedard and all of my teachers for the chances that I was given, the encouragement that I received, and the courage that they gave me to advance in today's society.

Derek K.T. Au (1992-94)

Sifton House

If I had to sum up what it means to stumble down the twisting trail so many people have labelled as St. Andrew's I could not do it without fondly remembering those good times. Hours of long study combined with fierce dedication all combined to make up my school life, but there was much more than that. The friends I made and the experiences I had with them made SAC a community, perhaps even a family that I shall miss dearly, goodbye. If the future holds as much promise as the past then I look forward to it with high expectations. I realize that rose-coloured glasses may often dull past reality but in this case SAC shines through clearly. I will miss you all.

Justin J. Bates (1989-94)

Memorial House

Sayings: "School politics", "CDS", "SB", "I am really sober, honest, really!", "I'm here more than you think!"
Activities: First Football QB, Tier II Hockey Vet, Phantom Club; LDC.

As I sit here writing my grad comment I do not know how I feel. It's hard to believe that my five years at SAC are now coming to a close. There is not enough space provided to say everything needed.

I would like to thank Ryan Lawlor for standing by my side since we were kids. We both ventured here together and have been battling the school for the last five years. Good luck in the future, I will always remember you "Sac Bro 1."

All my thanks go out to Drew Downard, my roommate and neighbour for the last three years. You helped me with all your late-night talks and stress rambles throughout the school.

Shawn, we have weathered the storm and are headed for a great future. Thanks for your friendship through the tough times and into the good times.

Ken Cho, Will McGuigan, and Andrew Beach, thanks for all the great times and many friendships that will last forever in my memories.

There is no catchy saying or phrase that can describe the love I have for my parents who have made all of this possible. I didn't always bring in the grades or achievements, but I never gave up thanking you. All your talks and motivational speeches urging me on were worth their weight in gold.

My years at SAC have been nothing shy of tough. The clouds always seemed to have been over my head, but I gained what I needed and graduated with life long lessons under my belt. For all the upcoming grade 13's, hard work and patience are the keys to survival.

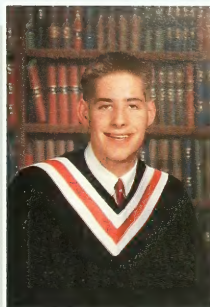

Mr. Perrier, you are the best housemaster that ever lived. You deserve a pat on the back for your caring and easy going style that made Memorial House a fantastic place to live. Thanks for the kick in the butt when I needed to get back on track.

A final thanks to the Ford family who made my last year at SAC more pleasurable with their kindness and extreme warmth.

Thanks so much.

Thankyou SAC,

for I leave a better man than I came.

Andrew Beach (1989-1994)

Sifton House

Nicknames: Andy-Boy, Loaf, Beach-mcn, Big Lou,

Sayings: Would you still love me if I had no hair?; I need a Moose-Head; Hail Mulroney; Ooh, city boy, that hurts; She's not my girlfriend!; Wanna get drunk and watch Slap Shot?; He called me a skid?; I live in Toronto, not Aurora; I hate you; Newfoundland isn't really in Canada, is it?; I have cousins in Calcutta!

Activities: Football, Hockey, Tennis, Sifton House Stud of the Week, Captain of Sifton House Investigation Team: Operation Herbert, Wednesday Night 90210 and Melrose, Winning money on Pro-Line, Monty '93, Newfoundland '94, President of the Steve Kimmerer Fan Club, MVP of Caucasian Corner, MVP of Subway and Slushee Runs with Pennal, Having a few before History exams. Beating the hell out of Ben Lo and Kimmerer's car, Undeclared Snow Football Champions - '91, '92, '93, Host of Beach's Basement Crew for Drunkards, and "Homey Night!"

The thing that I treasure most about my time at SAC is the friends that I have made over the past five years. Goo, Newf, Yanis, Delf, Pennal, Rabs, and everyone else, boarding with you guys for five years has been incredible. You're the best friends anybody could ever ask for and I will never forget the times we've spent together.

As I look back on my time spent here, I realize that choosing SAC as my high-school was one of the smartest decisions I've ever made. Memories of everything from locking Petrie in a closet in Grade 9 - and not letting him out, to hearing Irwin Mong's declaration of Now is not the time to ask questions, now is the time to copy, to Homey Night with the boys in Grade 13, are just a few of the things I will always remember. To these unforgettable times, I owe my parents, who've stuck with me the whole way. Thank-you for letting me stay at this school, even though I probably never deserved to be here. I won't forget it.

Next Year: Hockey Managerial Scholarship to: Harvard, Yale, or Dalhousie.

Martin F. Blum (1989-94)

Flavelle House

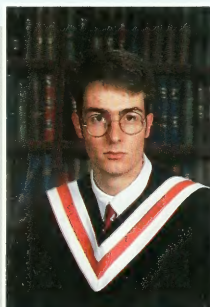

Nicknames: Marty, Maaaahhh-nnnn, Blum (pronounced like rum not bloom), Bloomer.

Sayings: Chico, was that sarcastic?; On your head; I can't believe I missed that dunk!; Byrnes please flush the toilet; Shotgun!; Mr. Wenk, can you explain that to me without using the example in the text book?; I didn't think so!

Activities: 1st Basketball 2a (MIP), 1st Track 3a (ISAA Champs), House captain, Head of Cadet Stores, 1st procrastination, Chapel skippers anonymous (president), World series founding member.

I've done my share, and more, of complaining about St. Andrew's over the past five years. But life here has not been as hard as I have made it out to be and looking back I can see that SAC has been pretty good to me. The good times that I have had here outnumber the bad and the bad experiences have taught me valuable lessons, like: always pay attention when winding up the basketball nets and try to attend Carol Service practices.

I thank the friends I made here for keeping my ego in check, my teachers for teaching me that: the more I think I know, the worse my mark gets, and my parents most of all, for always doing what they thought was best for me. Goodbye SAC, it's been interesting.

Scott D. Bonnell (1992-94)

Sifton House

Nicknames: Newf, Newfy, Newfy, Newfie, Neufie, M.C. Chalk, Loser, Nicole Moore lover, Brunell, Brunelli.

Sayings: Word, I got the funk. Leave Dylan alone. Your just jealous of Newfoundland. Yes, wet T-shirt contest officer. Go sit with Ben, Beach; I don't kiss butt, No Clarke, you can't have 90201; Dar-cy! Johnny five; COOSEE; Knuckles; No really, Delf, I do love Philippines, Chico, RADA!!! Well Hello Rickie Wong; Good night, for the n" time; What did you get in AP Calc. Beach? Cysts can happen to anyone! That ain't popcorn I smell, I hate SPIN, I hate SPINNER.

Activities: Prefect, Head of House, School Secretary, House Captain, Kitchen Liaison, School scholar, First Hockey (2a, MVP 1994) (OFSAA 1993 champs undeclared, MacPherson Champs). First Volleyball (2a) (Spiritual leader), First Lacrosse (2a), First Track (2a) (pole vault pro), Bedroom B-Ball champ (1a), Sifton Investigation, Member of Montie '93, Moosehead Rep, Dodging French girls, getting run over, Aurora Generals MVP, summit series champ. Head of the popular fine-arts society, Beach Basement Club (2a), Co-head of Writer's Craft immigration squad, Worshipping Meg Ryan with Chico Sotres, Filling out futile university applications with KYC.

The two years I have spent at SAC have been the most significant years of my life. Who would have thought two years ago that I would be moving to Ontario and attending such a prestigious school as this.

I have so many people to thank for this opportunity. Mom, Dad, Steve, Nicole (We made it), all my grandparents, relatives, friends on "The Rock" (P, H.G. Young, Monk) and Lady, I really can not express to you how grateful I am for all of the support you have given me. A special thank you to Mr. Dunford who has given me so much guidance for my Hockey and Mr. Kimmerer for all the hell and good times. Mr. Hender (I owe this all to you), The prefects, The Sensational Seven (JS, JC, RR, AB, JD, JF, SB), Mr. Foy, Mr. Smith, Mrs. Bell, Mr. Harper, Mr. Hiltz, Mrs. Petri and Mr. Bedard. Thank you. If I have forgotten someone please blame it on my head, not my heart.

"I chose the one less travelled, and it has made all the difference"
-Robert Frost

Thomas A. Brannon (1988-94)

Memorial House

Nicknames: Branhead, Branlake, Sweeper, Tommmmmmm, Kurt

Sayings: "Gray, you're still on the phone?", "My glasses aren't tinted!", "Sir, I have a reason this time!"

Activities: 1st Charles, 1st Excuse making, Freak Show '92, 1st Chaple attendance, Buddy Bob fan club

The first people I must recognize are my parents of course. They put up with my fluctuating grades and stood behind me the entire time.

I also must thank Mr. Smith and Mr. Kinney for pointing me in the right direction through their support and much criticism. The Perrier family deserves much credit to my well being here at SAC. Mr. Perrier was very forgiving yet he kept me in line, and Mrs. Perrier does so much behind the scenes that it is a shame that she does not get as much credit as she deserves.

My friends here at SAC made everything a lot easier and more enjoyable. The people who deserve the most thanks are "Draco", "Schmenkie", "TeeWee", and special thanks go to "The lord of the darkside", and "PP" for putting up with me.

Long live Jughead!

Daniel C. Brash 1993-94

Memorial house

Nicknames: buggu banton, spock, buggs, trini, dan, Mr. hash, danny.

A few sayings: leh we go fuh a blendz, gimme a schooch nah, wake up dammit, no you relax, I eh able nah, Spock check behind that rock, this is the coldest day in the world, what they go do... send us to rehab, leh me sleep na dread, Kevin you have a big head, Im sure Biggs did it, hear what... let's skip the rest of the term, let's pull an all nighter, is Kimmerner on the loose, and just when you thought it was safe to wear shorts... BAM.

Activities: basketball, weight training, cricket, MVP for sleeping, wickedness, guild shop supporter.

Well, the year that felt like ten years has finally come to an end and I must thank many for helping me to strive and mentally survive this venture.

First of all I must thank my parents for doing their best to educate me here. I must also thank all my teachers and friends, who helped me to cope this year out at St. Andrew's College.

Geoff P. C. Brennagh (1987-94)

Ramsey House

Nicknames: RAT, Rat-a-tat, Grumpy.

Sayings: Stupid Newfie, Reid you're such an Idiot, Hey Clarky, Chuck are you coming out with the boyz this weekend (various whip noises), Yes Reid I'll drive today, Hey Manny, Reid you should really get a doctor to check IT out, Hey Mike your house 1:00SEGA and pop? Activities: Prefect '94, Co-Head of Ramsey House, I Hockey 3a (OFSAA champs '93), I Football 3a (MVP '93), I Track and Field 2a (ISAA champs '93), 7 year CLUB, Member of the ghost wagon, Midnight Run Club, Chez Herce '91 '92 '93 '94, Quebec '93, Summers in Gan. '93 '94 (thanks Clarke), Parents Preswail Club, Big G's Gym.

Seven short years filled with so many great memories that could never have justification in such a small place. SAC has enriched my life in so many ways from the sportsfield to the classroom. The thing that I will take with me is the life long friendships I have made: the boys of Sifton (Mexican included), Boys of I Hockey, Sharon Boyz, Common room Boys, THE BOYS. Thanks to Coach Dunford and Galajda for sticking by me through thick and thin this year and for their friendships which I will take with me. Reid, next year will be our first at different schools since kindergarten at Sharon P.S., thanks for the good times and the friendship thus far! Good luck next year. Most importantly I want to thank my parents whose sacrifices provided me with this incredible opportunity and more importantly for being there for me and sticking with me throughout.

Word to the Boyz:

Flavelle House

Nicknames: Old Man; The Vomit Comet Prisoner; Ren; Bobo the Sadistic Clown; PMS; Anarchy.

Sayings: No, I'm not stoned; No, I'm not the antichrist - step following me; Wouldn't it be cool if a meteor came down and hit me in the head?; Happy Dance; Hackel, you steelnink!; Wait, where's my key?; Why, hullo Mr. Ossifer; All I need is a ninety-five and I'll be OK; If it's [any name, it doesn't matter] - I'm not here.

Activities: Track and Field; Debating; Nepal; Man of La Mancha (Cervantes); Oklahoma (Il Skidmore); Epic; Haggis; Lacrosse; II Soccer, 2AM Coffee Shop Guardians of Time and Jelly Doughnuts; Cadets (Officer); Bio Cram Union (Founding member); Senior Ensemble; Daylight Anonymous.

Two years at SAC and all I got was a bunch of stupid t-shirts. And a splitting headache. And merely one of the most memorable experiences, or bundle of experiences in my life. It's difficult to fully appreciate a place like St. Andrew's until you've left it, and looking forward to that event doesn't make the task of leaving an epitaph any easier.

Through everything, my friends and family were there to support me in all the activities I chose to inflict myself with. It's funny. After two years crammed with as much as was humanly possible, I feel like it wasn't enough. Like if only I had more time, I could still do something more.

Every time I leave the school gates behind me, be it for a weekend or a trip, our relationship becomes just that more bittersweet. I don't know how I'll feel when I leave them for good. But what I do know, and what I'll always cherish, is that I'll always be welcome to return. St. Andrew's College: thank you.

Thanks to my parents for investing in me and putting up with all my excuses, and to Somers, Leo, and Hackel for helping me make them up. Mom, Dad: I'm going to pay you back someday - somehow. I'd like to thank the Academy...

"Bruce, what are you doing?" - Mr. Perrier

"Don't Panic." - The Hitchhikers Guide to the Galaxy

David J. Burgess (1988-94)

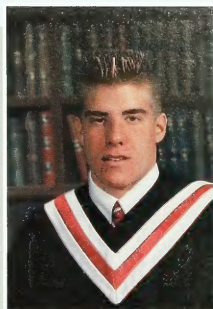

Sifton House

Nicknames: The Burgmeister, Davey Boy, Burgess King.

Sayings: So, Kurt when did you want that comment?, Too late? It's never too late.

Activities: Macdonald House Assistant head of house; weightlifting; various and sundry things involving myself in the school.

At this point in my life I have to look back and sing the sweet praises of SAC. Yes, SAC that wonderful place in Aurora just south of Newmarket, where the flowers bloom and the sweet birds sing. Oh yes that place of grassy meadows and sweeping pines... ahh. Well I suppose it's time to leave all of that behind and move on to greater things. To think that I can no longer be berated by Mr. Timms for carving into his desk, oh the memories. Thanks to my friends for hanging out with me, and thanks to my teachers for being there when I really needed you. Most of all I would like to thank my family for helping me to overcome the rocky road SAC had challenged me with. Goodbye I'll miss you all.

Christopher T.W. Byrnes (1987-94)

Ramsey House

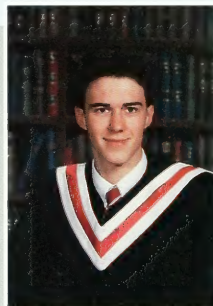

Nicknames: Burnee; Satan; Slidder.

Sayings: Cranker you are so annoying; Don't worry I'll find it!, I feel like such a dildo; Don't worry Mr. Cowell, I'll take Jose home; This doesn't look like the picture!

Activities: Sr soccer (2a); Sr Hockey (3a); Lacrosse (5a); Absurdly long car trips with Jose; Breaking land-speed records with Geoff; Double scoring ricks with Geoff; Harassing Tennessee locals.

I'd like to thank my mother for understanding, and my friends, who know who they are, for making my life so much more colourful.

I'd said that the last six years at SAC went by smoothly I'd be lying. I've had my tough times, and I've been given second chances (and third and fourth) I am certain that if it wasn't for a few extremely supportive people I would be taking underwater basket weaving and advanced floral arrangement at Aurora High right now. But luckily I have had two big hitters in my corner, Mr. Foy and Mr. Bedard. Thank you, for keeping me on the right path.

Joseph C.S. Chan (1990-1994)

Flavelle House

Nicknames: Josey; Joseeph; Josif; Chan Yu-ad Sud; Chan Jo seed; Banchan, P-MAN CHAN.

Sayings: "Unnn-fortunately...."; "Tom, how's Isa?"; "NO-WAY! Eva doesn't look like me!"; "Ka Tung, do you like Steph or Jenny? Or maybe Irwin?"; "Jer or Randy, have you done accounting?"; "BC Ninja!!"; "Chris, come to my room tonight!"; "X-Men, you are a banchan!"; "Hey big guy!"

Activities: Fencing (2a Captain) 1st in Ontario High School Fencing Tournament '93-94 (at St. Mary's), 3 times 3rd in other Ontario High School Fencing Tournaments; Squash (3a); Badminton (3a); Curling (1a); House captain; Cadet stores (2a); Gr. 11 Math contest school champion; Houseplay; Designer of Flavelle House hat '93-94; 1st computer's NHL hockey (in Ka Tung and Alan's room); 1st Late Nights (MIP); Boiled Friends '94.

First of all, I would like to thank my parents for giving me such a great opportunity to study abroad in Canada, especially at St. Andrew's College. I have really enjoyed these four years of boarding-school life at SAC in Flavelle House. Studying at SAC has been the turning point of my life; it has made me grow from a kid to a man. Lots of thanks to Mr. Foy for being so nice to me all the time and being the best housemaster. Mr. Bedard, Mr. & Mrs. Hillz, Mr. Wenk, Mr. Hemmings, Mr. Smith, Mr. Inglis, Mr. Hanson, Mr. Dominato, Mr. Walden, Mr. Scoular, Mr. Giel and Mr. Kinney. I really appreciate and thank you for all the confidence, effort and encouragement you have given me in these years. Friends I have made at SAC have given me a lot of support, fun and unforgettable memories in these four years: Alan, Jer, Will, Tom, Derek, Jeff, Ran, Ray, Stan and many others. Thanks to all of you! I will never forget these happy and memorable days at SAC. Goodluck everybody!

Techee Cheung (1991 - 94)

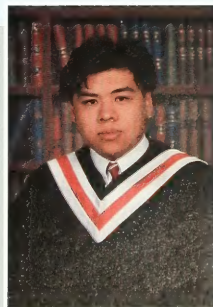

Memorial House.

Nicknames: Ball, Lover, Sleepy, Tough-Guy.

Sayings: "Story Time", "Sol", "Fung-Ah", "Teen-Ah", "Tie-Wok-La", "Lets go and party", "X-Time", "Movie time", "Move", "B-L-C".

Activities: Badminton, Football, Cadet CSM (93) RSM (94), "Story-time" Chairman, Member of The Raiding Society, Chairman of The Memorial House Movie and Hi-Fi Club, Member of the Skipping society, Member of the racing society, Member of the X society, etc.

My time at SAC has been short but great. After I went to SAC, I found that what school really is. I have learned many things in this school. Most importantly, I have learned how to escape. To all my friends, I can only say "You guys are great and I don't think I could have done without you, all." I would also like to thank all the teachers, masters and staff for guiding and helping me. Thank you very much. Lastly, special thanks to my lovely parents, "you are great". I love you all. So long!

It has been a memorable four years for me and it is hard to believe that my SAC days are over. All the fun and hardships I had here will stay in my memories forever. I would like to thank AK, DD, DM, IC, JB, JD, JC, KA, SS, TC, TS, WM, along with all the others in the class of '94 and wish them luck next year. Special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Perrier, Mrs. Bell, Mr. Hiltz, Mr. Myrns, and Mr. Arril for all their help and patience.

Sayings: Gee I guess that comment can wait, How you doing mo'fo, Well I suppose life will carry on.

If I had to sum up SAC in one paragraph I'd have to say it would be all about responsibility. The efficacy to meet deadlines, the ability to produce when called upon, despite being badgered. If the school took anything from me it cannot measure up to what it has given in return. I grew up here and the people taught me many things, like how to wear a turtleneck and a dress shirt at the same time. Anyway let's get straight to the point. Thank you to my friends, you were all a real pain but I needed you anyway, thanks to my teachers, you were an even bigger pain and I think I needed you; and finally thanks to my family, your support did not go unnoticed. I guess that's it, I'll see you all in twenty years when you've got less hair and a few more pounds. See ya.

Dad & Mom, you've been the most important people in my S.A.C career, thanks, not only for the financial end but also for believing in me when I said I could still get somewhere with marks like mine. I love you both. Thanks to the Perriers for being an extended family during these crucial years. Thanks to all the teachers & staff here you were all great especially Mr Smith for being blunt. Good Luck to Deke, Bob, N.R., K.H., K.L., J.B., S.K., T.J. & to my friends the Grads of '94 in surviving the politics of the real world. People complain that S.A.C is too politics oriented but I feel that like it or not so is life & in that way S.A.C helps us prepare a great deal. Mr Galajda & the original vault crew I will remember the "Good Ol Days" always. C.D. good luck, look me up sometime & watch those pipes. Anyone who ever wants to visit UTOPIA or University look me up you will always be more than welcome. Mr Swan thanks for the talks & tours. Thanks Mr Kinney for the advice. Sorry if I missed anyone's name, my friends know who they are. Alfredo good luck. K.Y.C watch the Stoli. Guy's I may be looking to you for a job in a few years don't let me down. Bates we be outta here. D.M., G.S. & C.S this world needs a MISTIE Island. Everyone keep in touch. Look for what's hidden. Call me and we'll Party! Thanks S.A.C.

Activities: Denial; leaving.

When asked to record my comments at first I was confused. How could I sum up STC in so little words, after all I've gone to this school for several years. Of course I've always heard it was nice but you know the saying, I wouldn't mind a visit but don't ask me to live there. Still, having completed a total of 76 hours in the classroom I feel I can leave SRC with my head held high. True I'd like to thank people if I knew anyone, but then again you all deserve a universal thanks for directing a lost soul, give me a break I only entered the main building twice. Anyway, farewell to you all whoever you are.

It's about time my comment got in to all of you, and I suppose I couldn't have picked a better time to do it. SAC has given me so very much. I have become enriched in countless way I could never even begin to describe. How ever could I be as athletic as I am today without the SAC sports program, thanks coach I love you. To put all those emotions into words is difficult but my involvement in the community says enough. Whether sitting across the classroom in politics listening to the brilliant thoughts of a Jamaican, Englishman and Drew simply made my tuition worthwhile. Thanks to Mr. Myrans for allowing me the privilege of studying with you. Thanks to all the people who were around when I needed someone to talk to, and thanks to my family for giving me this wonderful opportunity, I cannot express my thanks enough.

I am grateful to my parents for the sacrifices they endured in giving me this opportunity at SAC. The school has helped and guided me, in building a solid foundation at this critical moment of my life. The school has also shown me the broader scope the process of learning encompasses. I hope to improve on these aspects in the years ahead.

My three years at SAC have been filled with many good times. In twenty years, I hope to be able to still look back at those that I met here, and those I've matured with and still consider them friends. I would like to thanks all those who've helped me to survive my time here, both my teachers and my friends. A special thanks goes out to my parents for providing me with the opportunity to attend SAC, and for just being there. Unfortunately I have nothing really profound to pass on to any of the future students here at SAC, except to say that to much of a good thing is never enough.

Well, well, here I am sitting in front of our school's second claim to fame; a computer. I'm here in desperation. I am looking for something to write that will have a profound affect on someone. Something with a little divine intervention! You'd be suprised how difficult this really is. Many of us (the graduates), have been working at these for a very long time. Everyone wants to be able to look back in fifteen or twenty years and reminisce about the "good-ole-days". Believe it or not, these five years have gone by fast. I can still remember my first day when Jose and Dave Michael came into my room and stared at me and Delf like we were mutants. Well the two of us seem to have shrunk somewhat, but we are still together. I've had a ton of fun here, I'm going to hate leaving. I have only four people to thank; Mom, Dad for obvious reasons; Carly for being a typical little sister (if I didn't get you a leather jacket, sorry); and Grady for being a big brother and blazing the trail through St. Andrew's for me.

Once over heard a conversation between two Andrian parents who were discussing the real worth of this school (and most independent schools at that). It was not the superb education we receive, but the friendships we form that can last for the rest of our lives. I'll have to get back to you in five years on that one.

Brotherhood. That sums up my five years at SAC. I've grown up with an Orillan, a Maltese-Irishman, a Toronto-Barrie boy, a Newfie, a Loaf, and owner of a Crustyda(?), a Chicano, a Utopian, a Korean, a Caledonian, a day boy from Barrie, and oriental beat up bag, a fellow PT founder, the Sharon boys (BLN) and injury prone Rugby player, a Jim Kelly wannabe and many more. Through all the things we accomplished together and all the things we didn't, it was a blast. Without them I wouldn't have made it through.

I would like to thank my parents for everything that they did to send me here and my sisters for being there. I know the sacrifice you made to send me here I am grateful (any time you would to roll a car my way is fine). Also thank you to all the staff who pointed me in the right direction (Mr. Smith) and actually got me working (Mr. K.). To Coach, thanks for all the great years of football and juice, for developing me into the basketball star that I am today. Finally, thanks to Mr. Bedard and Mr. Foy for the support and advice (I needed it).

My first and last year at SAC has been a demanding yet enjoyable experience. I felt welcome on my first day and have since made some great friends. I have found the atmosphere at SAC to be a unique blend of discipline and freedom obvious in the classroom and on the sports field. Within the structured framework of daily school life, there is room to explore avenues specific to each person. From the superb teaching to the variety of sports and debating, this year has been a fitting finale to my high school education. A special thanks to all those who helped me stay afloat throughout the year especially my parents, Nancy and Paul, and the Hoodlum. As for any future plans, well, not as such, no.

St. Andrews has been more to me than classrooms and teachers. Knowledge here isn't just academic. This school lives in an atmosphere of carefully controlled individuality that you won't find anywhere else. This independence allows us to deal with small doses of the good and the bad on our own, without the protection of our parents. Experiences like these give St. Andrews graduates a head start on life. After spending time here, I feel ready to deal positively with almost any situation the outside world can throw at me. The social and academic skills I have learned here will be with me forever.

Thanks to Mr. Perrier, Justin, Tim, Deke, and everybody else I've been in contact with during my time here. With a few notable exceptions you've all been great!

To my parents Thank you just doesn't say enough. You've put up with me through all the toughest times, never begrudged me anything I've ever needed or wanted, and put up the money to get me the best education there is. Thanks and I love you.

The last two years have been an experience I will never forget. These two years at SAC have been beneficial to me, putting aside the hard times I went through. I will never forget the gatings and sub-zero temperatures during my days at SAC. My most favorite experience at SAC would have to be playing with the SAC soccer team and becoming champions in three tournaments.

The first year proved difficult, as I had to adjust to a very different way of school life, but I have pulled through both memorable years.

I would especially like to thank my wonderful parents who gave me the opportunity to go to St. Andrew's and for the support they gave me. Also thanks to my sister who was always there for me when I needed someone to talk to, to all my family at home, and to my guardians who were there to go to on the long weekends. Many thanks to the teachers who taught me and to the friendly staff who was always ready to help. Special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Perrier who made my life at boarding possible and treating me with the kindest of hospitality and making me feel at home at all times. Nuff respect to the friends I made at SAC and the Ruffneck West Indians.

As graduation approached, many of my peers mentioned how they would probably appreciate St. Andrew's later on in life. It was then that I realized that I already do, this institution has promoted my education, confidence and personality. SAC is a brotherhood, culminating from its active atmosphere. Although studies are important, the athletic opportunities are not to be avoided. In fact, they complete the entire Andean atmosphere.

Without my parents this chapter of my life could not have occurred, and I am certain I would be different. It is not always said, but I could always count on them when I had to and I love them very much. Describing them as just my parents is not enough as they have become more my friends.

Thanks to everyone who helped me over the years, teachers and students alike, especially: Mr. Swan, my tutor, teacher and coach; and the prefects and grads of '94.

Andy-Boy, Yaris, Rabs, Delf, Lochmolio, Hoops, Seani, Pennal, Jose and Scotty B; you guys are closer than brothers to me, and without you I would not have gotten past the first term here at SAC. I want to thank sweet Allie for being herself. Thank you for being a friend before a teacher. Mr. Swan; you have taught me the most important lesson of all, one that will be life long; the importance of a team and what it means to be part of a team. I would like to thank the two most important people in the world to me; my Mom and Dad. Without you I am nothing, I would have accomplished nothing, but with the support that you have shown me I have succeeded, failed, and had fun. Dad, I will miss looking out into the stands and seeing you watching me, and being proud. If I managed to grow up with half the qualities and morals of my parents, then I have succeeded far beyond belief.

Music has played an integral part in my stay at Hotel SAC, it seems to be a friend that I could always turn to when I was feeling down. I will remember my stay at St. Andrew's with fond memories, as for Michael and Joseph, have fun because it flies by St. Andrew's has been a blur of friendships, victories, failures, and thought. If you are reading this to try to pick up some advice from someone who has ridden the ride, move on. Advice was something that I hated getting, and I am far too young to give any out.

I would like to thank my parent for making me stay in SAC and their moral support, specifically, my dad for spending the time and money so that I could get the best education.

Thanks to all my friends without whom my four years here would be unbearable, you all know who you are. Specially to Delta and Lover, without the two of you, life will be a tragedy to me. Finally, to my one and only baby (you know who you are), the only thing I want to say is "you mean a lot to me!"

In closing, I thank St. Andrew's for it has enriched my life both physically and spiritually.

Thank you to all of my teachers and tutor for helping me throughout the year, especially to Mr. and Mrs. Perrier for making all of us boys feel at home even though we were hundreds of miles from it.

S.A.C. is a great school and I'd say that this has definitely been one the best years of my life, so far. The time was great and I'll never forget S.A.C. and all the good friends that I made here. I'll also never forget how much money I spent on ordering out for food.

It is with pleasure and sorrow that I leave this very respectable institution in search of further knowledge. Saint Andrew's, with its amiable atmosphere has made my secondary education pleasurable and quite challenging. The Andrean community is one of a kind, with it's diverse student body and compassionate staff members. The friendships developed are greatly appreciated and never to be forgotten. Special thanks to Mr. Whitehead, Mr. Smith, Ms. Marsh and Mrs. Pilieci who have made my years at SAC productive and enjoyable. Your confidence and support throughout the years is immensely appreciated.

A very special thanks to my parents for their love, patience, understanding, generosity and support throughout the years. Without your sacrifices I would not have attended this prestigious institution. To conclude I would like to wish a joyous and fruitful future to all the grads of 1994.

When I first arrived at SAC in 1989 I did not expect to have been subjected to such incredibly dehumanizing pursuits. Not only was regulation strapped to my life but I was also forced to cross-dress. While arriving to further my intellectual pursuits little did I realize that I would be forced to live in drag. I would like to thank the school for enabling me to parade down the streets of Toronto while dressed as an unfashionable Scottish hooker. Thanks also, to my former officers, because of you I cannot pass a post-office without saluting the flag. I guess they succeeded in creating the perfect citizen..... in some Monty-Python type manner. Well that's enough sunshine and butterflies for now, let's get pessimistic. Since my boarding daze (1st team Petrie-bashing) to a year of manic depression in Flavelle with Nog (What a nightmare!-someone help! my roommate has no vowel!), I have looked forward to graduating. A chance to improve my life, a chance to move on. Thanks to Mr. Paolini for inspiring me to develop my capabilities and to my supportive parents and friends who were my life line for the years that expired in no time flat. SAC has loaded my brain and cocked my mind, ready for battle with the "jungle." Now that this will all be a memory soon, I must confess that they were well spent years that I will remember and cherish always.

So I managed to make it out in one piece. It wasn't easy but then again that's just how they planned it. Just when you think you're out they suck you right back in. But I'm OK the stress hasn't affected me at all I calm, collect, no problem. That road was difficult and now it's time to set my sights for the future. SAC has expanded my career options, that's why I've set aside some lines to thank the people who need thanking. My friends have helped me through some pretty difficult moments and they deserve more than I was able to give them, hopefully these words are enough. To my teachers. I feel that even the worst times are met with some satisfaction, and that's why I want to express my gratitude to you all. Learning is a key which helps to unlock countless vaults, I'm hoping to get into those shortly. Finally I should thank my parents for giving me the best, without you I would be lost. Thankyou. Thank-yous go out to Mr. Smith and Mrs. Bell for helping me plan for the years to come. Thank-you Mr. Treasure, Mr. Dominato and Mr. Rush for supporting me throughout Enigma's fluctuant life - I hope it is not short-lived.

Thanks most of all Mum and Dad. It is your love that put me here at this school, and it is your love that kept me to the grind-stone through all these years. You gave me this fine education, and I will never forget.

To those too innumerable to mention - the little things that make the difference; without you life would be without its little quirks. Good or bad, you have all helped to make me who I am.

I can't believe it, I look back and see the best three years of my life. When I first came to SAC I was thrown into a world I never dreamed existed. I was introduced to new sports, new ideas, and most importantly new friends. I have to wonder without SAC would I be the social and intellectual dynamo that I am today? The answer is no SAC influenced me in so many ways that I cannot even begin to mention them. I'd like to thank Mr. Smith for turning a blind eye when he probably shouldn't have. I'd like to thank coach Laing for putting the "balls" back in our football program. I'd like to thank Mr. Myrans for teaching me how to think. To my friends (C.J.D.S.E.J.F.R.R.T.H.G.B.K.S) everything I ever learned from you I know I'll keep forever. To Jose, James, and Pepe, swailing will never be the same again. To Gord and Vicki, you know I love you both and you have my unending respect and friendship. Lastly I thank my parents who put up with all my antics and still had enough faith in me to let me finish. I cannot put into words the feelings and respect that I have for you.

My two years at St. Andrew's were short but memorable. I can still remember my first day at SAC - I was a total stranger to those people who are now my best friends. To try and summarize so few words what St. Andrew's has meant to me is virtually impossible. SAC cannot be explained, just experienced. What it has taught me is responsibility, maturity, and integrity. Special thanks to my housemaster Mr. Foy and my tutor Mr. Kinney for all their assistance and guidance throughout my stay. Also I am infinitely grateful to my mother and father for their love, advice, and support in giving me such a rare opportunity. In closing, I thank SAC for offering superb academics, various extra-curricular activities, and all the other plentiful opportunities stemming from Andean life.

Erik Hedges left a lasting mark on SAC life. As one of the youngest members of our graduating class Erik brought a wealth of knowledge and personality to our group. A touch of reality is the only way to describe Erik's unique view of life. Throughout the year I enjoyed many laughs with someone who had a rare ability to capture life in a sarcastic frame. Wherever Erik travels to in the next year I am sure that he will take with him memories of SAC that are fond. An avid tennis player who dabbled in the squash courts with Josh, Erik presents a model of the ideal Andean. We wish him the best of luck in the future and hope to hear from him in due time.

I don't know exactly where to begin. My five years at SAC were rather interesting. SAC gave me the confidence I never had. When I first came to SAC all shy and scared, the friends that I made helped me through the first year and the new friends I made helped me through the rest. This school also helped me physically. By allowing me the opportunity of playing the sports I liked it helped me turn from a little pudgy ball into a lean mean muscle machine (just kidding).

Even though all the teachers that have taught me, hate me, I want to thank them for putting up with me, but most of all I would like to thank my parents for making sacrifices to send me here. You won't be disappointed.

When I came to SAC in 1987 I joined a crew of lads who were bound for a long ride. During that year Mr. Whitehead told us that only a few of us would actually survive the ride to 1994. Well I'm sitting here typing my comment and while the road was rocky I managed to hold on till the end. Where I'm going or what I'll be doing over the next seven years are unknown to me but that's the way I like it. If we could turn back the clock things may have gone differently, but that's life. To my friends thanks for being there, you kept me up when I was down. From the years with Motor Head to the final stroke, you supported me and helped me through, thank you. To the teachers who watched me grow up, thanks, I appreciate your efforts, hopefully they will prove worthwhile. Finally I would like to thank my family for sticking by me over the years. Goodbye SAC, and the class of '94 I'll miss you all, keep in touch.

First of all I would like to thank Kurt and Will for helping me to come to terms with my follies; without you guys I would never have been able to understand how truly great the West is, thank you. Furthermore I would like to thank my teachers for providing me with some knowledge, although it can't match up to the quality of my friends comments I still feel that you deserve some thanks. While all of these great people have helped me through the years I must also thank my family. Without your support I would never have been able to come as far as I have.

If you ever wanted to talk to someone with a cheerful approach to life this gentleman is your man. Will distinguished himself throughout his career at SAC as an outstanding member of the community. Whether on the court or in the classroom his approach to work remained consistent. When we look back at our year Will shall no doubt figure in our memories fondly. An avid soccer and basketball player this Andrean's departure marks a loss for our school. In debating Will also managed to make it to our Haverlall social debate. I came to St. Andrew's College after two years of high school a little tentative. What would school be like without girls? Would I be able to maintain my average? Could my parents afford the tuition? St. Andrew's, however provided an extraordinary atmosphere for me to spend my senior high school years. The Andrean pride influenced me and bestowed a great confidence in me, I never knew existed. St. Andrew's has been much more than just a school, it's been an experience. I experienced friends that made every moment an adventure. St. Andrew's, through its students and faculty added a dimension to school that I extremely enjoyed. To everyone, I would like to give my thanks, especially to Mr. Smith for continuously helping me with trivial tasks. Furthermore, I wish to express my thanks to Mr. Dunford, Mr. Galajda and Mr. "Roach" Kimmerer for three great seasons of hockey. Without a doubt, I would like to thank my family for dealing with all the stupid things I have done and for supporting my decisions throughout my high school years. Education is a strange creature. When I entered St. Andrew's at the age of thirteen I knew everything there was to know. Five years later it's all gone. That is not to say that I have been poorly educated, quite the opposite in fact. The more I learn, the more I see what is left to learn. Experience works that way, I think.

My friends have played an intricate role in my growth, so I must thank Ian, John F. & D., Hoops, Chalk, Johna, Beach, Bin, Jose, Dave, Jilly Bean and especially Zacharia! I also thank the Welshs for their lovely daughter. Stay strong Neil, Hurls, Flave & Deke. Coach J, thanks and good luck, I perhaps learned as much on the court as I did in the classroom. I wish I could mention all of the teachers who have motivated me, but space is limited.

My families deserve special thanks, both of them. A large percentage of any success I have in life can always be attributed to Mom, her support has been greatly appreciated. My heart goes out to Tim and Tim, their friendship personifies everything honourable in life. I owe them both for the values they have instilled in me, especially my brother.

I will leave you with a bit of advice. If there is one thing I learned here it is to be confident in everything I do. In all of the difficult decisions you must face always believe in yourself, and you will succeed.

If there is one thing that I have learned through the seven years at this school it is responsibility. The ability to come to terms with yourself at critical moments and then put forth your best efforts. When you push yourself to the hardest limits sometimes you surprise yourself. If I hadn't been pushed through all those years by my many coaches I would never have made it this far. That is why it's important to recognize those men and to thank them from the bottom of my heart. To my friends I'll always remember you. I made friends who will carry a place in my heart for the rest of my life. I honestly can say that the teaching staff has been most helpful and truly has the students' best interest at heart. To my comrades in Flavelle house I say so long and I'll know that the house will be empty without me. No more reggae tunes to liven up the house will surely dampen house spirits.

I would like to personally express my thanks and gratitude to Mr. Foy who has definitely had my best interest at heart. To the West Indian crew, I say 'later you 'all'. We guys have had some amazing times and some of the memories will last in my mind for a long time. I would also remind all the graduating islanders to remember to reach for the stars. In these two years I really have had a good time here. The ups and downs have made me feel like I am tasting honey sometimes and drinking vinegar at others. First of all my deepest thanks go to the people who made these experiences possible: they are my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yeung and

Mr. Charles Yeung.

Further more, thanks to the Wu family for their support and Edwin Leung for being my driver on the weekends. Without their help life would be thousands of times harder than it is now.

There were so many unforgettable moments: writing English essays at the last minute, the house barbecues, nights during the exam time, game times, cadets. All of them seem like they just happened yesterday. I will not forget the days and nights on this beautiful campus, nor the friends and teachers who I have met here. Teachers and Coaches: Thank you for letting me know what I can do and what I can't. Mr. Perrier and Mr. Giel, thank you for your guidance when I first arrived; Mr. Arril and Mrs. Bell, without your help I could never have finished those applications, so thanks very much!

Finally, I need to thank my family again for their total support and also friends who keep writing letters to me during my days at St. Andrew's. To the grads, Good Luck in the future!

It doesn't seem like I've spent two years at SAC. SAC has been a great place for learning good things and especially bad things. I greatly appreciate the help I received from Mr. Smith throughout Gr.13. I will miss Mr. Kinney's never ending stories, Mr. Walden's numerous references to Barbados and Mr. Perrier's absurd jokes. Special thanks to Mrs. Ash for all of her help. Thanks to the W.I. posse: Shad, Tito, Ebanks, Richards, Richard, Benji, Sands, Philip, Daniel, Stuart, and to Wesley, Scott, Justin, Julian, John. I would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Perrier for all of their greatly appreciated help. I also thank Pizzaville & Emilio's for my nutrition. I will never forget SAC and (1) the way that they over-charge for every little thing that you could possibly imagine, (2) for the putrid food, (3) the 3rd world sanitary conditions (4) The students paying to eat crap and the faculty getting paid to eat gourmet food. Finally, I would like to thank my parents for all of the sacrifices that they made for me in order to experience SAC and remember, no more stupid monthly statements! I had to deal with many things at SAC that I didn't want to at first but non progređi est regredi.

Activities: Prefect, Head of Flavelle House, 1st Soccer (3a, ISAA/CAIS champs '93, co-captain), 1st Rugby (2a, ISAA champs '93, MIP), 1st Basketball, making ridiculously long car trips with Byrnes, late night blatant plagiarism, getting arrested with Byrnes (a long story).

Seven years at St. Andrew's seems too much to be summarized into a paragraph. Now that I'm leaving I feel both nostalgia and relief. It has been an experience I will never forget. From winning championships in both soccer and rugby, to failing my final calculus exam, I have laughed through the good times and eventually learned to laugh through the bad ones. Actually, I think I've just learned to laugh at everything. To my friends who made this all possible (you guys know who you are), thanks for everything. Good luck. (Reid... to get to the states, you go south!) There's not enough room to thank everyone who's helped me. But there are some people who deserve special gratitude: Mr. Foy, for being a great Housemaster and friend and for kicking me in the butt and getting me turned around, the Peacocks for giving me a home away from home, but most of all, my parents for giving me their unlimited love and support. I hope I've made you proud.

Beyond the academics here, which were challenging, I learned things about life and most importantly things about other kinds of people and the person that I am. It hasn't been easy, but soon I will say goodbye to a part of my life in order to start a new one. I feel confident with what I have learned here and have instilled a new confidence in myself.

Drew, thanks for being there always for me, good luck luck to the boys of next years ball team, keep giving me that 90. Deke, thanks for always being down that baseline, give 'em hell next year. To my fellow Grads, its been great, I'll miss you all, keep in touch.

Mom and Dad, Sloane and Henry, you guys are the greatest; Together forever! Without Hank, a survivor of SAC 1993, I wouldn't have made it. I'll never forget your support. Mom and Dad, thanks for sticking with me when you thought I was a hopeless case. A big hug goes out to Houston, Bently and Bailey (snapperhead), they've always listened when nobody else would.

A final thanks goes out to a special friend. Holli, thanks for everything, your wisdom, warmth, friendship, and understanding. You made me realize a lot about life, love and happiness.

Hey this is my last chance to get my thoughts down on paper so the greatest opportunity I've been given had better be taken. Thats why I'm going to sing the praises of the school and the team and perhaps even the coaches, but most of all I would like to clear up some myths. At no point in time was I offered an ungodly amount of money to play for SAC, that accusation is ridiculous. Hell I earned that Ferarri and the lear jet was a gift from my friends. St. Andrew's is an ideal learning institution. I will always cherish and reminisce the years I spent here. St. Andrew's broadened my horizons both academically and socially. There are, however certain goading stereotypical characteristics which should be dealt with.

At first, I wasn't even going to write a grad comment (or graduate, for that matter), but then it finally dawned on me what graduating meant. It marks the end of an important stage in a person's life. And as I shift from a period of young innocence to that of the stressful real world, I couldn't allow myself to leave without some words to express my feelings.

Coming to St. Andrew's has surely made the greatest impact on my life. All I know is that for the five years I've been at S.A.C., from soccer camp and the new boy orientation to the graduation ceremony, I've learned a bit about what life is. However, there's still a lot more to learn. I'd like to thank my parents for sending me here, even though at times I thought differently. St. Andrew's is not just a school where I had my high-school classes. It's the place where I played sports, joined the cadet corps, and made friends. These things I will surely miss.

But what I'm going to miss most of all is the systematic way of life here. From now on, life will no longer be planned out, no one will be looking over my shoulder the way this college does. Am I ready for this kind of life? Who knows? But it's probably time to move onwards. That doesn't mean I can't look back at the times of happiness and sorrow, success and failure. So thanks for all the memories!

Activities: House Captain, Chapel Boy (3a, prize for chapel), the shortest Cadet Store Personnel (2a), Basketball (4a), Soccer(2a,MIP), Badminton (3a), both junior and senior House League (MVP), set school record for the most attendance of chapel in four consecutive years, set school record for not skipping a class in five consecutive years.

For the five tough years I've been at SAC, I have learned a lot both about the real world and myself. I realized that if you want people to give you respect, you will have to earn it, but when you think you deserve it, you are not even close to getting it. I appreciate everything that I have right now (which is not a heck of a lot). I'd like to thank my parents for sending me to this institute, a place that will forever remain important in the mist of my memories from now on. Here, I learned the responsibilities of life through good, and bad, experiences. But along the way, I had some fun and met a few good friends too. The times at St. Andrews can never be replaced, and though there have been times where I thought different, I'm going to miss it. But then again, life goes on.

You call this fun??? What happened to things like Homecoming & Mayfest?

HOME COMING

As usual, this year's homecoming enlightened everyone from the young grade sevens to the eldest of the old-boys. With sports such as football, soccer, and volleyball to keep the masses entertained, there was little time for the lunch barbeque (but I'm sure most people found time to eat!). All of our representative teams were victorious if not physically then mentally. The victim of our many homecoming wins was Ridley College from St. Catherines. After the long day of sports, Ridley was put on their bus and sent back to where they came from. Everyone, showered and dressed for the dance that evening. With a fabulous laser show and butt-moving music, complaints were impossible to come by. It was not until the ladies of Branksome and Havergal had boarded the buses that the men of SAC got their well deserved rest.

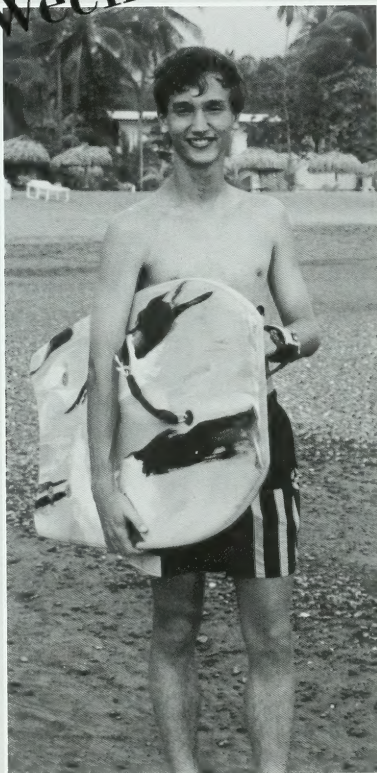

Homecoming is not only a time for SAC to show-off the talents on the sports fields. It is also a time to remember the Old Boys that have already graduated from St. Andrew's College and are making their mark in the world outside of the campus boundaries. This year the Classes of '34, '44, '54, '64, '69 '74, and '84 were honoured at the traditional banquet held in the Dining Hall. The Old Boys were treated to a delicious meal created by the Kitchen Staff.

WEEK

Expansion Week. The title itself explains the meaning of this 'enriched time'. During this week as every year, the students have the choice of participating in many trips outside of school boundaries to such exotic places as Cuba, Costa Rica, Bahamas and closer-to-home places like Quebec and Norval.

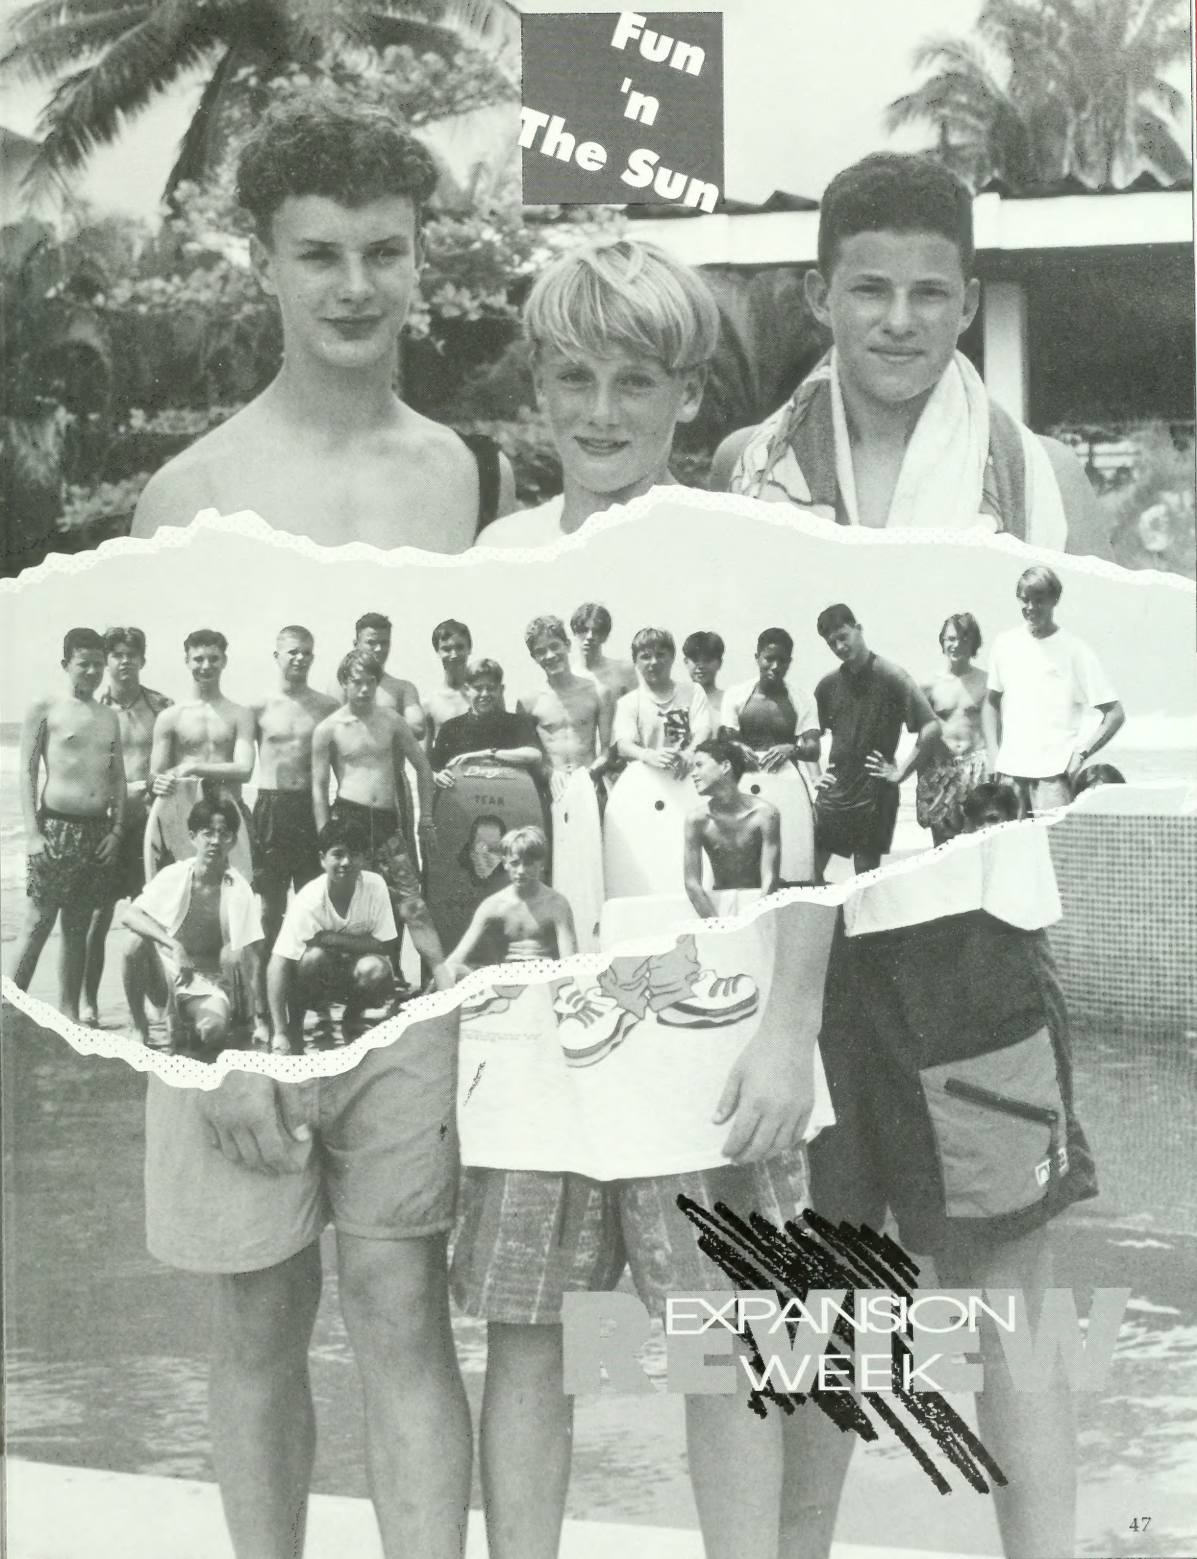

To continue with the molding of the S.A.C. student into the perfect citizen, people unable to 'escape' on a trip can either participate in Community Service, Art, SAT Preparation, Law or a number of other different events. This year, the trip to Russia was unfortunately cancelled due to the revolution occurring at the time in the Former Soviet Union.

Expansion Week promotes cultural education through the actual physical interaction with the different cultures. Much can be said about this theory, simply ask the students who went to Cuba about the countries mating rituals!

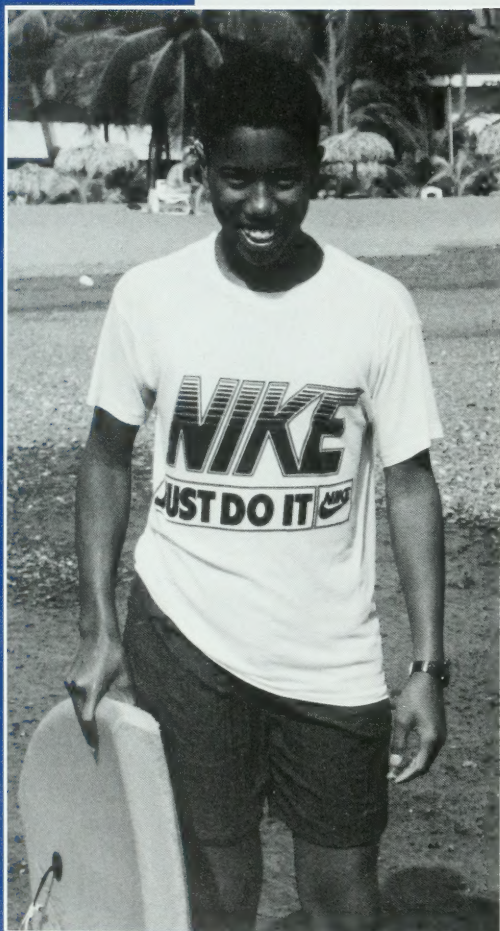

Glancing through the photos which were given to the Review, one thing can be said about how people felt about the 'Week': all students and faculty came back to classes the following week with smiles on their faces, stories to tell and experiences that will never be forgotten.

The Haliburton Forest Outdoor Education Field trip is a mandatory component of the curriculum in the grade 12 Environmental Science course SEN4A. This year 28 students along with Mr Galajda and Mr. Carnegie, embarked on this exciting and challenging trip during the last week in September. On this trip students learned about many components of the environment including forestry, aquaculture, wilderness navigation and survival skills, water quality testing, and wildlife.

Different modes of travel are used in Haliburton Forest including biking (40km), hiking and rafting (20 km). The weather was chilly, then warm, then cold, then it rained, hailed and snowed, making this more challenging. Congratulations to all those students who finished this exciting trip! Looking back at those beautiful fall days brings back many wonderful memories.

TRACK & FIELD

Screams of happiness and excitement could be heard coming from the upper fields of St. Andrew's College late in the afternoon on a blistering hot May day. Sweat poured down the faces of many people as they exerted the last of their stored energy in the quest of capturing the winner's circle.

Even though New House was the overall winner of the day, many people would agree that everybody who participated gained something allowing them to be pronounced 'winners' too.

Much thanks should be giving to the masters who ensured that all events ran smoothly and on time (Hmmm!). Credit should be given to the students as well because without them, we wouldn't have a track and field day.

Our St. Andrew's College 1st Hockey team represented the school with all of their hearts, fighting their way to the finals against Nichols. However, unlike last year, the MacPherson Tournament trophy slipped through the grasp of our hockey team when they were defeated in double overtime.

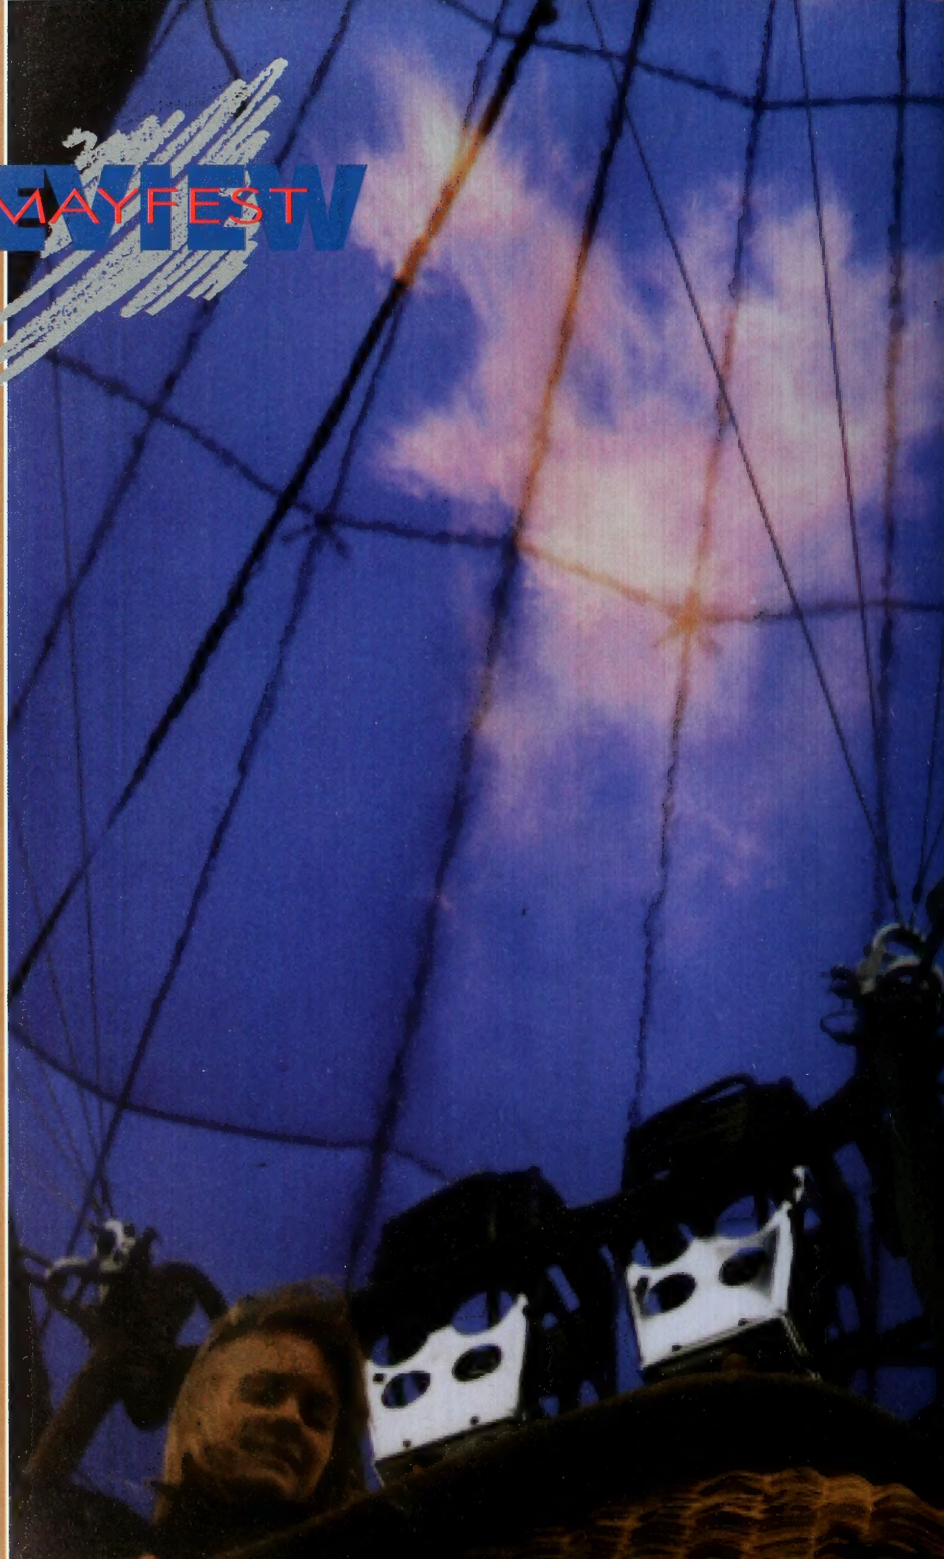

The students of all ages enjoyed watching the destruction of Fort Frances at the Friday night MacPherson Party attended by the entire College.

his year's prefects took it upon themselves to construct a Mayfest better than any other Mayfest in the past. Under the direction of their capable leader, John Delfin, they worked till the wee hours of the morning removing the focus stages in time for Casey Jones the hypnotist.

The festivities began early Saturday morning when members of the student body volunteered to be hypnotised. This proved to be quite hilarious for those in the audience and during the session quite confusing for those on stage. Lunch was then served while live music was played in front of the dining hall. The afternoon was filled with fun and games literally, as booths ranging from insults to hockey were setup and run by the graduating class. The first rugby team then continued the entertainment with a well fought fight against Appleby College.

Later in the evening a movie and dance was run for all those interested. This once again proved that a dance is the best way to end a Mayfest, as it was not until all the visitors had left that the men of SAC retired to their rooms for some well deserved rest.

The cross-country team attracted a large number of enthusiastic runners. Highlights of the season include a strong performance in the ISAA championships, in which the SAC team was narrowly edged out of second place, and the York Championship Race, in which the senior team advanced to the DYSSAA championships. The size of the junior team encourages hopes for the future of the program.

U16 Football

The Junior Football side enjoyed tremendous success for the third straight year, winning the Independent Schools League once again.

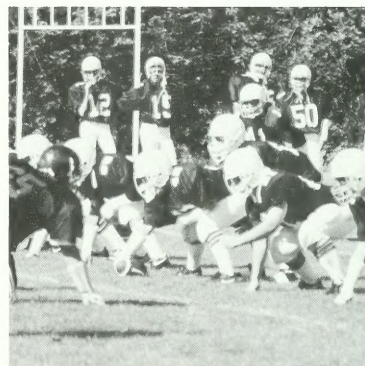

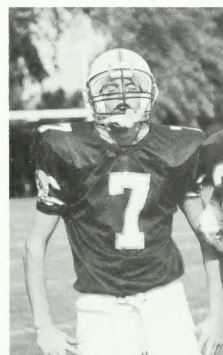

On the offense, this year's team was led by Quarterback Fred Perowne and the running ability of Mark Newton. The steady blocking of Dave Brannon, John DeCarli and Mike Graff made our running attack second to none in the league. Our passing game was the best that it has been in years, not only because of Perowne's ability, but the strong play of Greg Berdette and newcomer Sean Cozier as receivers.

Defensively we struggled at times trying to find the correct blend of players, but when we finally 'gelled' the team proved to be practically unbeatable giving up very few yards and even fewer points as a first string squad. Outstanding at their corner back positions were Graham Munro and William Diep, two of the best tacklers on the team. A variety of individuals played linebacker over the season, but particularly impressive were Dan Herce and Abe Choi.

In any season the memories are many and in such a successful season even more so, but several moments stand alone. Few will forget Andrew Ipekian's inspired interpretation of pass defence against TCS or David Grey-Noble's interception vs Appleby. The strong running of 'second stringer' Ian Jones who seemed to run for a 35 yard TD every time he carried the ball or the game clinching, end-zone reception of Mike Foy against UCC also stand out among a season of highlights. Fred Perowne earned his MVP award in virtually every game, but never more than against Appleby when his two interceptions at safety swung the game in our favour. In a team liberally laced with first year or ninth grade players, Jeff Thompson was a deserving winner of the MIP award. The coaches would, of course, like to congratulate and thank all of the players for their dedication and performance all season.

it looked like they were going to have an outstanding season

The first football team won their first two games by lopsided scores and it looked like they were going to have an outstanding season. In the third game we were hit by a string of injuries, mainly to our two fine running backs, Seb Herce and Charlie Perowne. We never recovered and lost three of our last four games to end up in third place with a 3 and 3 record. Again, hindered by injuries we lost the semi-final playoff game to Trinity College. Our co-captains were Seb Herce, John Delfin and John Farrugia. Our most improved player was James Clarke and our co-most valuable players were John Delfin and Geoff Brennagh.

"A Salute to "COACH""

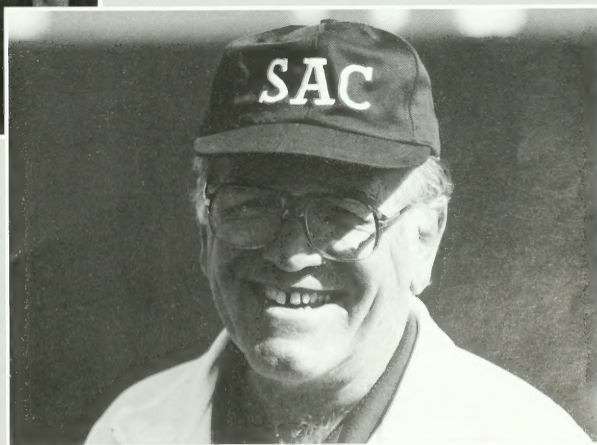

This past November, the school community, including present parents, present athletes and a large number of Old Boys paid tribute to Gord and Joan Ackerman for their outstanding contributions to generations of Andreans.

Gord Ackerman came to St. Andrew's College in the fall of 1973 from the Toronto Argonaut organization where he had served as an assistant coach under Leo Cahill. This year Gord prepared for his retirement as Head Coach of the St. Andrew's First Football team. Twenty-one years and five championships later, a thousand Andrean players, numerous assistant coaches, dozens of timekeepers, water bottle fillers, trainers, and several thousand football fans, parents and alumni wish him well.

Be it on the football field, the basketball courts, the athletic stores, the golf fairways or even in the keyboarding classes, "Coach's" endless enthusiasm and authoritative presence have never failed to evoke emotions and to leave his words firmly etched in everyone's consciousness. The school has honoured his memory by erecting a spectacular scoreboard on the West side of the Gordon Ackerman football field.

"Coach" has been an important part of the Andrean community and we will miss him.

(Acknowledgements to: The Andrean, Headmaster's Prizeday Speech)

Some soccer seasons stand out head and shoulders above most of the others. It wasn't the wins -- our wins and ties just barely outnumbered our losses

This year's team had the thrill of travelling all the way to Vancouver Island where we were hosted by families in the St. Michael's University School community. We saw a lot of the city; especially memorable was the Capilano Suspension Bridge. We camped for two nights at the Rath Trevor Provincial Park. The scenery was magnificent; the size of the mountains and trees surpassed all expectations and the hours we spent on Long Beach were superb. We learned a lot about working together; undoubtedly this made us a more unified team. These experiences and the wonderful kindness of the SMU families will stand out for ever. Thankyou to the mums and dads who made additional sacrifices to make it possible for their boys to have this once-in-a-lifetime experience.

Ikhaz Kadiri was a good goalie and was our most valuable player. Defenseman Ryan Dockman got us out of trouble again and again; we sorely missed the contributions of Ian Sinclair and Greg Thompson who were unable to make the trip with us. Azul Tejani stepped in at the last moment and filled the gap. A number of players could have been the most improved; for example the two Iains, Rogers and Myrans, and Jamal Sealy. But the most improved player who always played hard and showed his good humour was Howard Chun. Our thanks also to Captain Matt, as well as to Gordon Ozawa, Jay Thompson, Scott Murdoch, Erik Yamada, and to Nick Cafaro (the fleet of foot) for making this a season that will always stand out uniquely. Mr.Cowell and I hope the team enjoyed it as much as we did!

R.J.R.

A strong, aggressive team, we just lacked goal-scoring punch.

We played 12 games, won 5 drew 2, lost 5, outscoring our opponents 22 - 15. But eleven of our goals were against two weaker teams, so in the ten tough matches we scored only eleven times; to win at this level we need three goals a game.

On defence, Captain Matt Ward always played strongly, while Alan Leung used his speed to prevent many goals. In midfield, Ben Hew played tirelessly, Budd Mathieson earned the MIP award, and Greg Meuser won co-MVP as our resident tornado.

Brook Dyson and Andrew Weedon were unfortunately laid low by injuries, but they both have potential. On the attack, Gooderham was on the mark with several surprise goals, Chris Haslam hassled all over the field, and Leon Nagakawa won co-MVP with his skills and power kicking.

We shall overcome.

Right from the beginning of the season, the skills and talent of last year's Under 14 players were very much in evidence. The squad members elected to have Keith Dadson as captain.

The playing season began September 18 with games against Lakefield and Appleby, both of which we won handily by 4-1 and 6-1. New players Fabian Otero and Joseph Leung both scored, adding both skill and speed to an already formidable forward line.

We took on Ridley a week later on a very windy day and failing to control both the ball and to cut off long up-field passes, were decisively beaten by five goals to nil. After that, thanks to excellent defensive play by the full backs, many splendid saves by goalie Gerald Li, sound mid-field play from the half backs and scintillating forward play, especially from Dan Ginou and Mark Landry, not a match was lost and we tied the Ridley away game. Exciting soccer at its best!

The Under 15 end of October Tournament is a different story, however, and the side ended the day without making the semi-finals.

In inter-school games we played 11, won 9, tied 1 and lost 1, scoring 40 goals for 12 against. Dan Ginou, with 13 goals, deservedly took the MVP award, and Joseph Leung that of the MIP.

It was my good fortune to coach such a talented and successful side in this my final year.

CHAMPS!

The 1st Soccer Team enjoyed a Season of great success. The Program commenced with a mediocre showing of senior players at the Soccer Camp from August 31st to Friday September 3rd. However on September 18th, St Andrew's was victorious in the Early Bird Tournament as the result of a series of shoot-outs and one goal results. With the return of Mr McNally from his honeymoon in Scotland and Greece, discipline tightened and the team became more focussed. The defence crystallized around the redoubtable corps of Sean Connelly, Paul Etherington and Jason Reid. The attack possessed great speed and a variety of strikers from the right and left in Chris Ebanks, Alex von Arb, Mike Kingston, Jed Dadson and Primo de la Quintana. The character, discipline and execution of the team were evident in our victory in the final of the C.I.S. National Senior Soccer Tournament on Sunday October 17th under ceaseless rain. At this point the race for the League Title had narrowed itself to Appleby, St Andrew's, Trinity and Crescent. After a disappointing draw with Crescent, St Andrew's had to settle once again for second place to Appleby College in regulation League play. Entering the playoffs St Andrew's hosted traditional rivals Trinity College School and this year came away victors 1-0. In the finals at Oakville, St Andrew's scored two early goals and emerged as I.S.A.A. Champions. Much praise for this season must go to Sean Etherington and Jose Sotres who captained a team consisting of players from nine different countries.

It was a great year for 2nd soccer with the possibility of achieving an ISAA championship. Of course we had our ups and downs much like that of a boat floating in an ocean rising and lowering just following the direction of the waves. Even though we didn't have the same degree of luck that 1st soccer had, everybody was pleased with the team's results at the end of the year, despite the fact that 1st soccer recruited many of our best players.

We can only look forward to bigger and better things next year as a talented crop of players is rising to the top of the beer foam as always. Mr Jones, the head coach of 2nd soccer, deserves an enormously big handshake for sticking with the team through even the bad moments and trust me, there were some!

To the graduates who will not be returning to S.A.C. and who played on 2nd soccer, thank you for blessing us with your presence, you will not be forgotten, who ever you were as I can't seem to remember.

FENCING

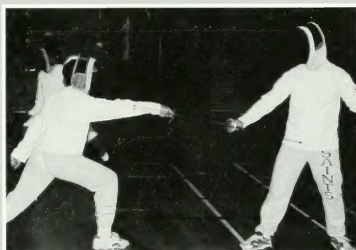

This year we had less of a crowd than in other years, only 28 boys signed up at the first meeting. But of those boys a much higher percentage stayed with the group (21) and of these boys the highest percentage ever actually took part in tournaments - 100 %!

We started off with a modest contingent of three 3-man teams at the tournament in Goderich and fell just short of a medal when we finished fourth. At St Mary's we stayed with the three 3-man teams and this time we came first! The third tournament was our home tournament and we entered five 3-man teams. In a hotly contested final round we finished third. At the Ingersoll meet we threw every boy into the fray! Seven teams of 3 made the early morning trip to Ingersoll to get, for many, their first taste of competition. It was a great day which ended with two SAC teams fencing off for the third place medal. The final team competition took place at Mayfield Secondary School where, once again, two SAC teams had to fence off for the third place medal. When all the other first term sports had ended, the Fencers were still hard at it with a tournament during Expansion Week. Indeed, even after the assembly to hand out the awards for sports participation, the Fencers had yet another fixture to look forward to: the Individual Fencing Championship which was held in St. Thomas on Nov. 26. For this tournament 10 of our 21 fencers qualified (out of over 60 in the league). At that meet Raymond Chow came 4th, Danny Leung 7th and Joseph Chan came 10th. The season can be counted an overwhelming success from every point of view. Unfortunately we will be losing a large number of our senior fencers this year but that only means a chance for some of the junior fencers to move up to take their places. Congratulations to all who took part.

This year once again a number of boys were introduced to volleyball at a competitive level. Their record for the season was 4 wins and 7 losses. Five of the losses came at the hand of schools which did not enter teams at the first tier level. This was the first year league standings decided which teams would progress to the championship tournament.

Unfortunately St. Andrew's was not invited. The highlights of the season were winning a tri-meet hosted by UCC at the beginning of the season as well as an upset victory against Pickering at an end of season tri-meet hosted by St. Andrew's. The MIP this year is Willy Lee who developed into a very competent hitter. The MVP is Lawrence Chu the team captain and setter.

U14 Volleyball

The SAC Under 14 Volleyball team had a great season this year. Through the whole season we were undefeated in the league, until the final game of CISSA against Upper Canada College. The last game against UCC was very memorable for me - it was the most painful game I ever played. Everyone played his best but the referee favoured UCC and called us for carrying every time we touched the ball. Every point we lost was just like poking us with a sharp pin. I could also recall the expressions on Mr. Grenier's face, telling us that we must not lose. But unfortunately our best effort was not enough to win the Championship title. Although we had lost the final game, we all knew that we had already given the best we could and that is all that counts. I think winning is not really important; the most important thing is that we have tried our best, improved our skills and had fun. As a Captain, I think I learned a lot playing with this team. Not only did I get to know more people, I also improved my skills and learned about the importance of team work. I am sure my team mates learned no less than I did. We also had a lot of fun. On behalf of all the players, I would like to say 'thank you' to our coach, Mr. Grenier. We were taught many skills. We are sorry that we did not win the league as we had promised, but would like to say that you were a great coach!

This year we had a young team with many developing players who will be returning next year. In a few words, we had a very up and down season, but we ended it respectfully by reaching the semi-final round in the ISAA tournament.

On the court we had great bumps and picture perfect sets with Mike Lacey and Billy Pugliese as our setters. Robert Sands "put the fear of God" into opponents with his powerful attack.

We'd like to thank Mr. Dominato for his coaching expertise and long hours in the gym working with the team. His knowledge was well appreciated by the players. I'd like to thank all the players for coming out to all practices and working hard!! For the returning players, Good Luck next year and we hope you have a great season.

U14 Hockey

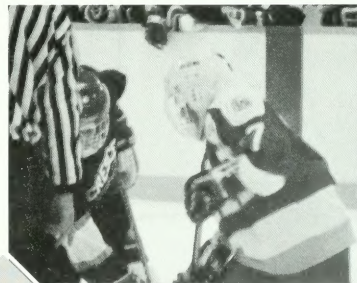

By anyone's standards, this year's Under 16 hockey team enjoyed great success, but the story of the year's team could be summed up as close, but not quite enough. In the early bird tournament at TCS, the team battled back against very strong odds to make it to the finals before losing 2-1 to a very talented AA team from North Toronto. The regular season had its share of highs and lows, but the squad showed on a regular basis that they had the determination and mental toughness to win the tight defensive games. Indeed, it was our superior back checking and defensive zone play that kept us in most games throughout the season, our only major setback coming at the hands of Nichols in Buffalo. The team entered the season ending tournament as solid contenders and surprised no one by making it to the championship final game. In the end, a late goal by Nichols, broke a 2-2 tie to determine the game. The team was led by the steady play of captain Graeme Martin, the speedy play making of Jeremy Pedder and the on-ice presence of Chris Heinig (a late season addition from the first team). On the blue line, the exceptional contributions of assistant captain Matt Rook, earned him the MVP award. Steady improvement was evident from all members of the team, those most notable being John Lowes, Jason Perrier, Alex Churchill and our team MIP Kevin Aarts who broke a season long scoring drought during the tournament semi-final vs Appleby.

The coaches would like to both thank and congratulate the team for their hard work and dedication during the season. Several members of this team will no doubt make sizable contributions to the first teams of the future.

U16 Hockey

Tier 2 hockey is a way of life. At the moment it is not so much about hockey as it is about the young people who are part of it: boys who would be young men and young men who will always be boys: of those who have no pretensions and play for the enjoyment of the game: of the dedicated dozen or so who are prepared to practice and give of their best in games: of those who could handle the pressure of the 'big' game and those who, try as hard as they might, could not.

The season had many 'firsts': a record number trying out at the start of the season -24 in fact; 6 wins and making the playoffs for the first time in many years. The hockey played varied according to astrological signs - from excellent to poor and quite often we shot ourselves in the foot - both feet in fact.

As first time tier 2 coaches we have enjoyed the season. Each week practices and games had their own drama, tension and excitement followed by a weekend on the psychiatrist's couch.

No coach will have lived without having experienced tier 2 hockey. We look forward to next year - The best is yet to come.

Although the 93-94 First Hockey Saints couldn't muster much in the way of hardware, they played some of the best hockey seen at the high-school level in years.

Led by a graduating cast that included outstanding players Jason Reid, Darcy Sweet, Craig MacFarlane, Alex Von Arb, Geoff Brennagh, and Scott Bonnell, the Saints gave Nichols the only 2 losses they had all season, and crushed the eventual OFSAA champions UCC, in 2 straight games in their ISAA playoff series.

I will not soon forget the double overtime loss to Nichols in a superbly played Macpherson Tournament championship, nor the one game ISAA championship at Nichols in which the best team did not win.

It was a hard luck season, but a phenomenal one just the same. Many thanks to Mr. Galajda, who created an atmosphere of hard work, fun and enthusiasm in just the right proportions. Best of luck to the graduating players. Thank-you for the tremendous contribution you have made to hockey at St. Andrew's -AD.

The 1993-94 U13 Basketball team was a group that went through a baptism of fire. With only one member, our Captain Matthew Wettlaufer, back from last year's team we were quite inexperienced. However, the good news is that we only had one way to go and that was up. This was most evident with our season series with Hillfield College who defeated us by about 50 points in early January and whom we defeated by a 10 point margin in our CISAA tournament at Crescent School.

We had the opportunity of playing many games and usually found ourselves in position to stay competitive with the opposition. Almost all of the members of the team were very reliable and worked hard. Special mention should be made of Erik Yamada who shows real promise as a guard along with Michael Wolf who worked extremely hard all year to improve his ability around the basket.

Similarly Jason Cheung and Ricky Luk have shown the ability to have future success in the game.

Our two award winners were extremely deserving and were a true pleasure to coach. Our most improved player was Ikhas Kadiri while most valuable player was Howard Chun. Congratulations to those two fine young men. I trust that all players enjoyed their time this year and hope that they continue to play the game.

Think Basketball
Think Under 16
Think Win!

This year's U16 basketball team had its up and downs. They started the season 4-3 but then went on to win 14 straight games. S.A.C. was the first team in then I.S.A.A. and finished a close second to Vaughan in the York Region division. Needless to say, we went into the playoffs with high expectations. Unfortunately the team suffered a disappointing first round defeat to Thornlea in the York Region playoffs. The team proceeded to lose in the I.S.A.A. championship game to an over-confident Hilfield team, who couldn't miss a shot.

The fact that Robert Sands had three 40 point games indicates a large portion done by him and on most occasions Sean Cozier was responsible for the rest. This team could play a great offensive game at times, like when they scored 97 points against Ridley College, but the defense was also spectacular at times, holding 9 teams to under 40 points. The team was deep in talent with starters like Robert Sands, Sean Cozier, Jed Dadson, Chris Donnelly and Tim Rabnett. The other members included Steve Lewis, Tim Downard, and Wallace Yeun who were also aided by the future U16 stars who will be returning next season. They include Brenford Christie, Kevin Siu and Andrew Hodges.

Much of this team's success can be attributed to the excellent coaching of Mr. Perrier. His emphasis on fundamentals allowed everyone on the team to pitch in when called upon. Thanks to our managers Wallace and Alvin and to all the players for having a great season. Finally, the team would like to especially thank Mr. Perrier for his time and effort in making the U16 basketball team a good one and for improving the skills of each player.

This year was one of the best years of basketball I've ever had. Luckily, many of the guys had played for a team before. Albert Tsai was one of our biggest members this year. He had almost never played basketball before but with some hard work he practised and earned a spot with the starting five.

In this year's tournament we finished third, being beaten by an unstoppable Hillfield team who went on to win the ISAA Championship. Also this year we had a good series with Ridley College (and Chuck). The first game at Ridley they beat us quite badly and things looked bad but we never lost to them again in the season and beat them in our next four matches up.

This year our MIP was Albert Tsai and our MVP was Tom Newton, the captain. Thanks again guys for a great season, and to Mr Somerville for all the hard work which resulted in our strong finish.

The 1993-94 season was what is often referred to as a building season. We were not without talent but generally the new talent was young and still gaining experience. The SECOND team was lead by the experience and leadership of Drew Ripley throughout the season. His tenacity was best exemplified the day of the CISAA Final Meet. Drew sustained an injury the day before the meet and was taken to hospital in order to have a locked knee eased back into mobility. Drew arrived at the pool an half-hour before warm ups began so that he could get into the pool and limber up his injured leg enough in order to compete. Drew Ripley richly deserves his Second Team MVP. Angus Wai is another member of Second Team who demonstrated great tenacity. As a new swimmer this year Angus had difficult initially in lasting through the workouts. By the end of the season he had demonstrated what dedication meant. Congratulations Angus on being the MIP for Second Swimming.

First Swimming was fortunate to acquire the DEADLY DUO of Dan Wells, Grade 8 and Nick Cafaro, Grade 7. Both of these competitors come to SAC with previous competitive experience and their desire to produce their very best results every time they took to the water made this year's team a competitive one. Combined with some of last year's First Team members who had returned and bolstered by some Second's who had moved up to the First Team, we enjoyed a good season. The MVP goes to one of the DEADLY DUO. Dan Wells, for his excellent performance in every race he competed in. The MIP award goes to Chris Foster who made the transition from Second to First Team and best demonstrated what hard work and the desire to succeed can produce. The coaches wish to thank all the athletes for the time and the commitment that they made over the season. -JW

As one of four remaining players on last year's Scottish Tour, I realize the opportunity a similar experience in England would provide. Looking back on the event, it was everything I expected plus a little more. Oh, by the way, we also managed to fit in a few games of rugby!

The "Committee" was a position created for the tour of New Zealand and Australia in 1991, and has become a tradition. Its purpose is to maintain some level of order throughout the trip. It is controlled through the use of fines; various "crimes" demanding payment of various amounts. The fine money is collected and saved for a celebration of sorts! This year's total was twenty-two pounds or roughly forty-four dollars.

This year's committee was comprised of John Farrugia, Julian Battiston, and myself. To the untrained eye, Julian might seem too young, but in our infinite wisdom we realized the need for a member to carry the tradition forward. Titles for our sentences varied, but in general they had the real meaning for the benefit of the touring teachers. Some were as follows: Sause refusing, unannounced Tatonka; blatant depletion of car batteries; sphincter fishing and Mr. Blobby desecration.

As you can see, meanings are often blurred, except for the twenty-one members of the touring team. Fines were not confined to the players alone, but the teachers as well. Each master was assigned, by the committee, a pseudonym of sorts. Like last year, Mr. Swan's was Mario Swandretti, and due to timid driving, Mr. Shields was demoted from Nigel Man Shields to Wong Lo Shields, who dared to follow speed limits! Our newest member, Mr. Grenier, was assigned the name Super G. This was appropriate as in Super G racing there is always the chance of wiping out. In fact, on the first day we believe he caused an eighteen car pileup!

Fortunately, our team was not maimed in any life-threatening fashion, although there were the usual broken noses and jagged cleat marks. In the five games we played, we amassed a total of eight points while giving up roughly one-hundred and forty! In our defence, we had not stepped on a field before touching down in England and the team, to say the least, was fairly inexperienced. Hopefully, as with last year, everyone comes back with a better understanding of the game.

The most heinous loss came at the hands of Bradford who won the tournament held at Silcoats College. Their team had at least three olympic runners and were definitely all on steroids. An entire thirty seconds had passed before Bradford scored. It was not long before Farrugia and I were figuring out how many tries had been scored that minute. On a lighter note, we did amass three points, one of only two teams that did.

The most annoying part of each game, was realizing that last year's undefeated ISAA winning team could have beaten at least three of the English teams we faced. Going out every night certainly didn't help, but it is a necessary component of touring and helps to block out the days loss!

Every year one member of the team puts the teachers in an uncomfortable situation, but it is almost expected. This year's case was Austin Page. He managed to pass out in the washroom of a club in Blackpool. After everyone had left, he awoke to find the building shut and preceded to set off the alarm! Luckily for him the owner had just locked up and sent him in a taxi to the police station. As Austin had no idea where his billet lived, and was feeling a little under the weather, he spent the night in a chair in the station's lobby! The following day he arrived in a police cruiser looking like Frankenstein. Initially Farrugia and I considered cashing in his plane ticket to pay for his fines. Upon consideration however, we realized he had been through enough!

To cheer everyone up, we played our favorite compact disk: "Mr. Blobby". Mr. Blobby is the Barney of England. He is a mix between the Michelin Tire Man and the Pillsbury Dough-Boy! His CD is up to the standards of a full orchestra, although they would have been in the process of a bwoel movement at the time. All things aside, it did the trick and we were off for another day of frolicking in England.

The night in Stratford was spent in a youth hostel on the outskirts of town. As a result, only the senior members of the team of the team were allowed to go out. The night was cause for a special celebration as it was Moa's (Brendan Hooper's) nineteenth. The Gods were smiling that evening as the minute we stepped out of the van, ten Irish girls happened to walk by. The next minute we were sitting in a nearby pub celebrating our youth!

As it was Moa's birthday, all six of us had to buy him a drink, diet caffeine-free coke of course! We were in such good spirits that we started playing a drinking game called signs. Everyone has their own sign and you start off by doing your own and then someone else's. The person's you do must then do his sign and another one. Failure to keep the game flowing means another gulp of your drink.

While we were playing our apparently amusing game, thirty other Irish girls walked into the smokey, cramped pub and begun school songs. As their vocals seemed to be aimed at us, we responded with various SAC chants, such as "Gang Wah", "Oh When the Saints" and "Amazing Grace". Unfortunately, everything came to an abrupt halt when the girls realized they had to be back for their curfew. Hooper was soon seen running down the empty streets towards their hotel, where he planned to continue his celebration.

When we reach the hotel the girls were waving out their windows, giving us cause for a little excitement. However, the minute we stepped inside the hotel manager kicked us out! This wouldn't stop Moa, who preceded to climb the stone siding of the building before we dragged him down. Most of us knew when to give it up!

I could not write a composition of "England '94" without including some of the sayings that covered our touring board. This bristol board had a map of Canada and England. As we travelled, we kept a list of sayings, names, players, special events and anything else important. What follows are a few of the more comical quotations:

"I don't look both ways when I cross the street. I just run." - Brendan Hooper
 "Who lives in Buckingham Palace?" - William Drape
 "Where's my Billet, and why are there bars on the window?" - Austin Page
 "John, if the traffic moves, drive the van, I have take a piss!" - Mr. Grenier
 "Where's Mr. Blobby?" - White Lightning

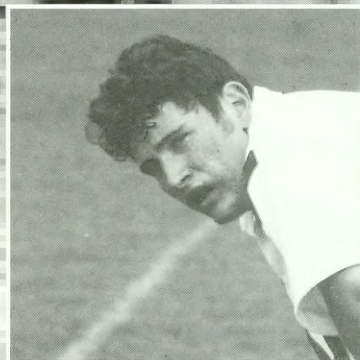

This years English Rugby tour proved to be a great success, on and off the field. We saw much of England in a unique fashion that nobody will forget. In Manchester, Lytham, Blackpool, Liverpool, Chester, York, Wakefield, Stratford, London, Ayelsbury and Gatwick we left our mark, one of an inexperienced but giddy Canadian rugby team.

In spite of a pre-season tour to heighten enthusiasm and preparation for the season, 1994 will go down as one of the more disappointing years of late. We began well enough against tough teams from Barrie Central and Lawrence Park, the two eventual finalists at OFSAA. These close losses were followed by a win against Fr. Bressani before our first league game, against Appleby. Behind at the half, we ended up winning comfortably. Too comfortably, perhaps, for things quickly came unglued thereafter. Against HTS, Ridley and UCC we did not capitalize on scoring chances; against TCS we were simply outgunned in the backs.

John Farrugia succeeded in leading by example. Sean Etherington, Craig McFarlane and Seb Herce all contributed their experience; Jason Inniss, Jason Worry, Charlie Perowne, Richard Rabbett and Jan Lutzen all made particular improvement, but none more so than Stanley Shui, our MIP. Austin Page earned the MVP award through his inspirational and elusive running - we shall see more next year.

It would be easy to cast the blame on inexperience and injury - both of which we had much of this year. But we had more players who took it upon themselves individually to score instead of using available support, especially when things were going wrong. In rugby, this doesn't work. Still, a lot was learned and can be used next year, not least the drive and consistency needed to regain the championship.

Thanks to all who are graduating, and also to John MacMillan for his coaching assistance and support.

U17 Rugby

The response this year to the notice about Under 17 Rugby was fantastic. In excess of thirty players turned out, enough for an Under 16 and an Under 17 team. The demise of competition in York Region made getting enough games a little more difficult, but the teams were in action at either level throughout the season. The decision was made to focus on skills development and to give players as much game time as possible, instead of trying to win a mythical league championship. Despite this the season was quite successful with more than our share of wins. A fair number of players will be back next year so the future looks bright.

M.V.P. was Tim Jackson and M.I.P. was Hugh Long. The coaches really enjoyed working with the team this year and thank all members for their co-operation.

The first practice of the season saw 24 boys, of whom only 4 had played before, try out for the team. Thoughts of good weather and dry fields were shattered as the cold, miserable winter weather lingered well into spring. For the most part, practices were well attended, and the difficult skills, rules, and positional play were beginning to be understood and learned.

It was a disappointment then that we only had 3 matches to play - our first opponent had already played 4 games when we met them for the first time - match experience is essential.

We didn't win any of those games, but the desire and enthusiasm were always there. Captain Chris Fusco and pack leader Jeff Sim led the team by example and their efforts are greatly appreciated.

My thanks to all the boys who worked so hard this season, but especially to assistant coach John Delfin, who, for 2 years has given so much of his time working with the forwards. Thanks, John! With many boys returning next season, the future looks most promising. -JC

This year we were not at all favoured by the weather. Every day it was cold or windy or wet or all three. With up to 18 players trying out and only one court it made things even more difficult. We finally started our season with a trip to Albert College where we were soundly trounced! That was followed by matches against TCS and Bayview Glen where we did a little better. The match against Holy Trinity was rained out. On May 25th SAC hosted the CISAA II Tennis Finals as we did last year and, once again, the weather did its best to hinder things. We started nearly on time and got in about an hour of games when the rain got too hard to continue. We decided to go inside for a break which extended to having lunch. By then UCC and TCS decided to leave and just play each other in Toronto. The remaining schools: Albert College, Bayview Glen, HSC, Holy Trinity and SAC decided to go ahead on a more informal basis, in as much as there is not really a true championship except at the First level. We set up a round robin and all the players seemed to have a very enjoyable afternoon of tennis. Technically SAC won, in the absence of UCC and TCS, but Albert College had to leave early and thus missed a chance to tie us. In addition to the team listed below much credit is due to other stalwart members who showed their enthusiasm for the sport by turning out every day and showing considerable progress over the season.

tournament, the event of prime importance in the tennis season, allows us to conclude that progress was made and that the hours of practice and preparation were worthwhile.

All 7 members had their bright moments and their disappointments. Realizing that 6 of the 7 are eligible to return, (5 of them for at least 2 more years, the future seems bright, indeed.

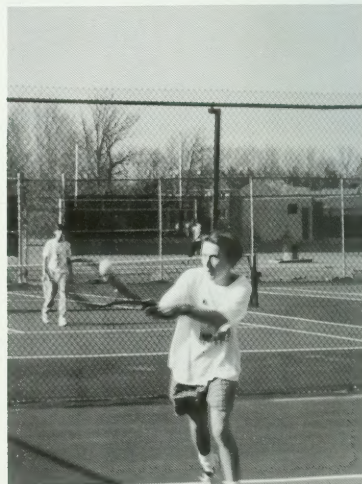

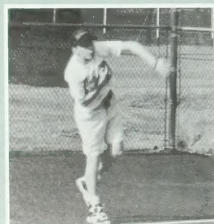

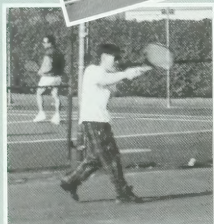

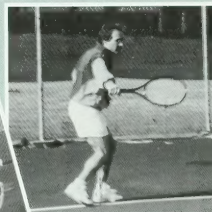

Many lessons were learned, one of which tells us that playing after being hypnotized, is a recipe for failure.

It would be difficult to choose an MIP or an MVP, as all contributed and all improved. Thus, we will content ourselves with naming the team members:

Kusal Fernando
Trevor Redvers
Eric Hedges
Neil Ritchie
Justin Hui
Andrew Ipekian
Brad Gibson

Hopefully we will see these members again next year.

Track & Field

For the 5th straight year St. Andrew's captured the overall title at the annual CISAA meet. In addition, SAC track once again was victorious in the midjet, junior and senior divisions!

There is no question that SAC track is riding a wave of success and that many students are a part (or have been a part) of that success. I've really enjoyed coaching this sport. It has provided me with many wonderful moments and memories. Therefore, I'd like to dedicate this 5th CISAA championship to all (past and present) team members. Remember the fun times when you come back and see the championship banner waving in the gym. Thanks for being a part of a great experience!

Thanks also to Mr. Perrier and Mr. Tsioris. It has been no coincidence that the success of the track team improved with Mr. Perrier's guidance and coaching experience. Mr. Tsioros coached our distance runners to greater success. Thanks to both coaches for their dedication and enthusiasm to the program.

After a great season in which we beat every school we faced, we entered the end of the year tournament ranked as the #1 team. Unfortunately, things did not go as well as expected and we ended up losing to Crescent although we had beaten them twice previously. Junior Golf

This newly created team was formed to meet the growing demand by students at SAC. While the junior team had no tournaments at which to demonstrate their prowess on the course, the members either practised on the driving range or ventured onto the well manicured fairways at St. Andrew's Valley.

The team members learned basic golf etiquette, patience and perseverance. It is hoped by developing players at the junior level that the senior golf team will remain competitive. -RG

REVIEW

Aside from the death threats made against the two duly elected Heads of House, Laidlaw House enjoyed a successful fun filled year. We dominated in various activities including several water polo games against the boarders. The grade nine teams devastated the Mac House squad -drowning half of their teams! The grade seven and eights -well, we won't go into that.

Our annual Laidlaw 'bashes' Mac House tug-of-war had to be cancelled this year due to the inability of the boarders to field four teams (any teams!) and more importantly because no one could find the rope! Maybe next year.

The barbeques were great successes due to everyone's willingness to pitch in and help. The same can be said of our Christmas party.

Robertson and Douglas clans once again proved that many of the school's finest athletes are in the Day Boy house. Our dominance at track and field day was no surprise.

Overall we enjoyed the good times, the triumphs and losses and grew closer together as a house.

REVIEW MACDONALD

This last year was a most interesting one for the residents of Macdonald House. After having to send more than ten grade nines to the Upper School last year, we found ourselves welcoming grade tens into our residence this past September. The lower boarding enrolment in grade seven to nine allowed for a bit more room and flexibility in living arrangements which made for fewer conflicts and better harmony.

I was particularly impressed with the efforts of the grade seven students who for the most part were very sensible and understanding of each other's needs. The grade eights were somewhat less reliable and more selfish. I trust that they will rise to the challenge of senior leadership next year. I was particularly pleased with the grade nine students. They had their fun pranks but usually did not involve or bother those not interested in the same games.

With the retirement of Mr. Galajda as Assistant Housemaster last summer, we welcomed Mr. Peter Carnegie into this role. He was available regularly in the residence and out on the Mac Triangle working on baseball and cricket with the younger charges. I would like to take this opportunity to personally thank Mr. Carnegie for the help he has given me all year; he has tackled a challenging task with excellent results.

Thanks must be given to many others who play a major role in running a large residence like ours. Our Heads of House, David Michael and David Burgess, Duty Masters, House Captains and all those junior boys who have helped our in many different ways to make our year a successful one. Thanks again for your patience, help and support.

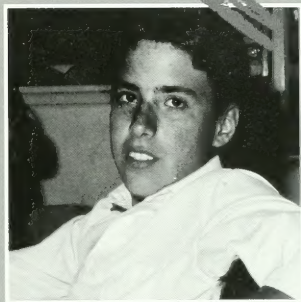

Each year we recognize many award winners for their achievements. The following are all worthy recipients

King Memorial Trophy
Edith Grant Trophy
Manny Cominsky Memorial Trophy
J.L. Wright Award
Ronald MacMillan Athletic Award
Ladies Guild Athletic Award
Rupert J. Ray Trophy

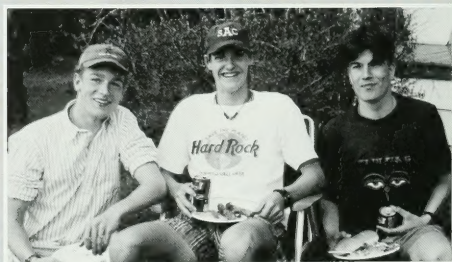

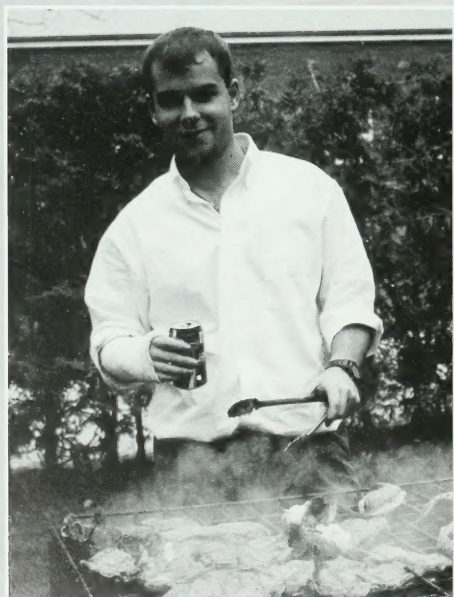

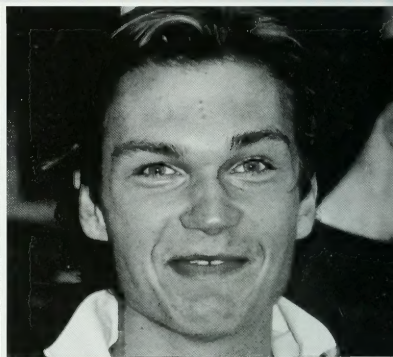

Greg Meuser
Fayaz Panjani
Ben Wood
Tom Newton

Bruce Clan

The one member of our house who did not receive an award but deserves mention is a young man who persevered after a difficult illness struck him in November. Jason Hammond has inspired many of us to struggle on when life is a challenge and we salute him for his tenacity.

I wish all of this year's boys all of the best in the future and hope that the past year will be one which they remember fondly in the years to come.

MEMORIAL

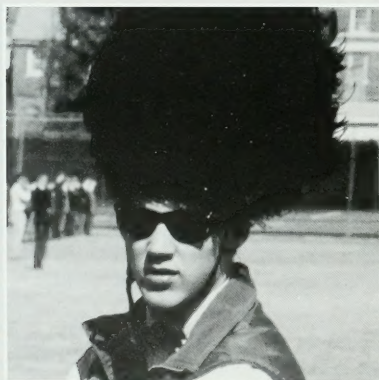

1 994 was a very fine year for Memorial House residents. Stan 'The Man' Shui provided some outdoor fun with his famous barbecues. Thanks to the Perrier's every other week the house could take their time getting out of bed (since Monday was our day off chapel) and enjoy a sleep-in breakfast. When the house wasn't enjoying their extra sleep time they were filling themselves with the Sundaes which we also received every other week. Friday Nights we got together and watched a movie while eating pop and doughnuts.

At Christmas time we decided to try something new. In the past we had spent a small amount of money on buying funny gifts for each other. This was entertaining but the gifts were just thrown out soon after they were traded. The money which we would have spent on gags was put together to buy real gifts for people who happen to be less fortunate than us. Thanks goes out to Mrs Perrier and all members of the house for making this possible. As is the tradition Memorial house had its share of room raids this year and a few people got wet. Thanks goes out to the Super Soaker company for making this possible. Next years Head of House Derek Bulas is sure to do a great job in leading the house and it will only continue to improve. The house has been lucky to have such fine people to lead it. Mr and Mrs Perrier have always put in extra effort to make the house feel like home and to care about the students like part of the family. Memorial also won best company for the second year in a row. As quoted by John MacMillan a former head of the greatest house "FOREVER MEMORIAL RULES!"

SIFTON

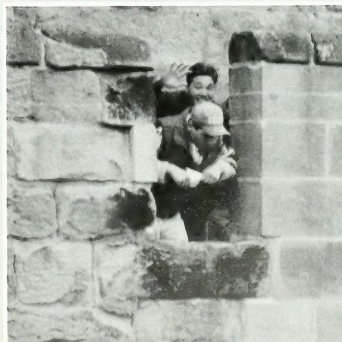

All that goes on in New House is obviously impossible to summarize in one paragraph. The accomplishments made by the House, and the fun the House had during the year are all memories of the House members. However, this is a feeble attempt to summarize the year of being an upper school day-boy in New House.

At the beginning of the year New House placed respectably in the annual cross-country run and had many representatives in the school play. During the winter term the House had many participants in the school musical and partook in such events as Ski Day and the ever popular MacPherson Hockey Tournament. The grey winter skies were bleak but were tinged with hopes of a golden hockey season as "game flyers" hung from the wall, boasting each whomping! Unfortunately gold was not to be, but the the spring sun showed its face and New House members came out of hibernation to take part in Mayfest and the ever popular cadet program. New House was particularly noted as House member Cdt. Nick Timms took Best Cadet honours, and Lt. Jed Dadson and Sgt. Mike Tzembelicos took Best Platoon honours. One step away from the sweep, Capt. Mike Parent and CSM Tim Horton took New company to placing as runners-up to Memorial company in the Best Company battle.

New House is a home, literally. There was not a day through the year that anyone could walk into the common room at anytime and be alone. The "C-room" was a social centre for discussing weekends past and to plan weekends future. This was the place to have "Mike the Janitor", "Lock and Key", and "Warden" discussions, to attempt comebacks and to wack chaw. The incomparable House atmosphere, dotted with frequent House BBQ's made New House the place to be in 1994.

RAMSEY

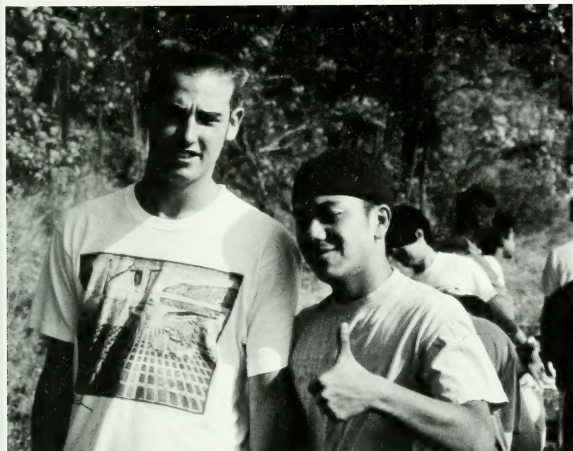

The Ramsey Tiger took possession of all the members of Ramsey House this year. In all activities, Ramsey was represented well and many cases had the spotlight shine upon it. Special note should be made to the first place finish of the Ramsey House in the Cross Country Run. We were second, only to New House, in Track and Field Day and the MacPherson Shield, presented to the student at S.A.C. who is the most spirited and effective clan member, was won by our Co-Head of House, Sean Etherington.

The traditional barbeques occurred and were greatly appreciated by all as they allowed a day-off from the 'Sometimes-Less-Than-Liked' Dining Hall Food.

Mr. Swan's continuous effort to maintain order of the house was usually over-looked so at this time it seems appropriate to quote the Coors Light Talking Can - 'You're a Winner'. To all returning members of Ramsey House, keep the flame alive.

The Cadet Corps underwent further evolution this year. In response to DND requirements we conducted Green Star and Red Star qualification courses, with nearly a hundred Andreans successfully completing the program. Graduates of the Red Star program, who were in Grade 11 this year, will move on to the Officer/NCO selection process next year with the option of participating in the Silver Star program. Capt Stephens and 2LT Benson did an exemplary job with these two programs.

Pipes and Drums, under the leadership of Cadet Pipe Major Will McGuigan and Cadet Drum Major Ian Cragg, worked diligently all year to reach a very high standard. A training program for novice pipers and drummers was instituted to provide performers for the future. Our thanks to Mr. Foy, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and Mr. Humberstone for their superb instruction and supervision.

Officer and NCO selection was completed before March Break. In late March and early April preparations for the Annual Inspection began in earnest. With the Church Parade on April 24 and the Inspection on April there was not a lot of time to get ready. But as usual the members of the Corps met the challenge with good spirits and co-operation. For the first time in five years the Church Parade was conducted without any rain before, during, or after the event. The day of the Annual Inspection provided a measure of concern, but despite the grey skies the show went on, the rain holding off until thirty minutes after dismissal. And what a show it was. Despite the cold the Corps performed flawlessly. We want to express our gratitude to the CCO, Cadet LCol John Delfin, the DCCO Cadet Maj Shawn Christie, the RSM, Cadet CWO Techee Cheung, and all the other officers, NCO's, and members of the Corps for all their work.

Best Lower School Cadet was Cadet Iain Rogers and Best Upper School Cadet was Cadet Cpl Nicholas Timms. Best Company was Flavelle Company lead by Cadet Capt Tomm Brannon and Best Platoon was Platoon #10 under the command of Cadet Lt Jed Dadson.

Finally our thanks to all the Civilian Instructors for their assistance. And a huge gold star to Mr. and Mrs. Munns who are the glue that holds the Corps together.

The Corps also wishes to thank and congratulate Mr. Munns and Mr. Humberstone for their efforts fifty years ago when as young paratroopers they jumped into the fray at D-DAY. We salute you.

All in all a great year.

I Am A Poem

I am a member of the Royal Guard of Solimnia
with a broken leg.

I wonder if the enemy has broken through our ranks yet.

I hear the cries of my comrades in arms dying and the names of their loved ones that are their last words.

I see red dragons wheeling in the sky, their great shadows throwing our castle into darkness.

I want to get up and fight, to stop the evil
mages from chanting their devastating spells.
But I cannot.

I am a member of the Royal Guard of Solimnia
with a broken leg.

I pretend that this isn't happening;
a bad dream - something I ate.

I feel the sharp pain sear into my head as I try to stand.

I touch my wife's cheek, looking int her deep blue eyes.

I worry for her and my children, for the enemy will show them no mercy.

I cry when I realize I may never see them again.

I am a member of the Royal Guard of Solimnia
with a broken leg.

I understand that I will not live much longer;
for the enemy will burn the castle and all surrounding it.

I say goodbye to this present life, this cruel world.

I dream of a place where there is no pain, no suffering,
no war.

I try to hold onto life, but I cannot. My life blood has stained the ground around me red.

I hope my family will die quick, painless deaths.

My wife, my son, my little girl with bright blue eyes.

I am a member of the Royal Guard of Solimnia.
My time on this world is through.

WORDS UNSAID

There she sits, the girl that fills your dreams. Her beauty radiates across the room as you peer at her from a distance, silently. With a slow turn of the head she looks your way, thus making eye contact. Gently, she eases into a smile. In an instant, with just a glance and a smiling face, several different emotions are communicated and rapport is established. Hopefully, you smile back...

This is likely the fantasy of most boys at one time or another and therefore a little fantastic in itself. However, this common daydream does reveal a telling story; the power of the smile. The smile is a universal language unto its own which communicates feeling through unspoken vocabulary.

When you more closely analyze the term "universal language" you come to a definition that describes it as a language that can be ably understood by an individual of any race, sex, age, religion etc. I cannot, for all of my intellectual capabilities, think of a method of communication more harmonious with that term than a mere smile. The smile does not see colour, sex, or age, nor does it serve to judge. It desires only to please.

Similar to any language, the smile's vocabulary is diverse. It wouldn't be worthy of the title "universal language" if it could only convey a few emotions. The smile's language is a wide spectrum that extends from happiness, all the way to unhappiness, with everything in between. Displeasure, annoyance, disrespect, and general unhappiness can all be traced to the smile's arch enemy, "the smirk". Riddled with sarcasm and covered in cynicism, the smirk is everything the smile isn't.

You can deduce numerous qualities about a person from how they smile. Those that smile but keep their heads buried in their chests exhibit a lack of confidence and the people that try to smile but for some reason their jaw won't let them and their teeth end up holding onto their lower lip, they can be found to be sly. These two however aren't as self-deprecating as the "cheesy" or "fake" smile, detectable by anyone of average perception skills. This smile should not be the smile of choice and must be avoided at all costs.

The confident smile is filled ease and simplicity and displays the essence of what a smile should be comprised of...happiness.

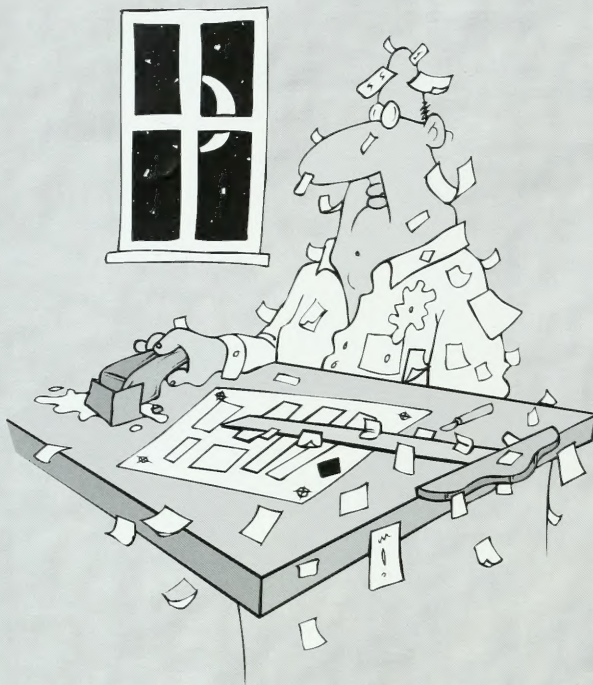

You may question my resources. I am occupying paper, ink, and your time with such a trivial thing as a smile. Where did I seem to gather all of this information? My personal experience is vast. Back in public school, I used to think that the more mature children didn't smile, so being an impressionable young man, I followed suit. Then, upon arriving at SAC, feedback from teachers through report cards and otherwise, informed me that they thought I was an unhappy boy because I never smiled. Recently, a girl whom I hold in high esteem told me she didn't know what to think of me. She thought I was unhappy all the time because I never smiled. I started to take notice of these comments. I began to examine the characteristics of a person's smile and what one can gather from it.

Today, I am happy to credit St. Andrew's College with teaching me how to smile and how to enjoy myself. People smiled at me and I learned to smile back. It's such a subtle thing, the showing of the teeth and the curling of the lips, but it holds immeasurable power...the power of the smile.

OFFICE STAFF

It is surely right to stress how much all members of the College owe to those who contribute in their several ways to the smooth running of this institution. Thanks to the Development Office, the Bursar's Office, the College secretaries, the heads of food services and maintenance, and all who help them. It is through the harmonious relationship of so many men and women that the school becomes more than a mere boarding- house, emerging rather as a genuine community. (Headmaster, Prize Day, June /94)

LIBRARY '94

In December the Board of Governors honoured Graham Towers, SAC '13, by naming the library after him. Mr. Towers was a former Governor of the College and the first Governor of the Bank of Canada. A plaque commemorating this and a portrait of Mr. Towers can be found on the wall by the entrance to the library. The portrait of Mr. Towers was painted by Paul Mantrop, SAC '87.

The Towers Library saw a few other changes this year. Two work stations were equipped with local CD-ROM units to complement the network CD-ROM drives. Another seven drive tower has been purchased for the network and will be in operation by September. More of the library resources are appearing in the CD-DOM format, and additional local drives will be installed during the summer. Seven WINDOWS equipped work stations have been ordered and will be installed during the summer.

The Towers Library was helped immeasurably by parent volunteers, among them Mrs. Jodi Wied, Mrs. Donna Heinig, and Mrs. Rosalie Hew. We are most appreciative of their efforts. Our thanks also to Daniel Gauvin who assisted in many ways.

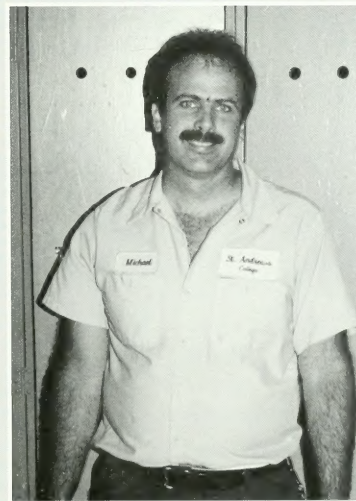

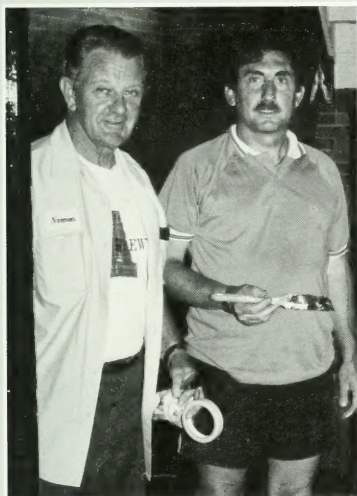

SUPPORT STAFF

On behalf of the students, faculty, and parents, the Review would like to thank the very hard working Support Staff who keep our facilities in excellent working order and our campus beautiful.

These men and women can be found behind the scenes; maintaining the smooth and efficient operation of the plant, mowing, snow plowing, and landscaping our attractive grounds, cleaning and refurbishing our residences and buildings, and supplying and preparing the countless meals that make up the school year.

To all those whose efforts keep St. Andrew's at its finest, the Review salutes you.

Stuart retires from S.A.C.

Math teacher, sportsman and
asst. headmaster

By Bob Brown

It would be hard to imagine two more diametrically different personalities — the Headmaster of the Assistant Headmaster in charge of Administration. As it turns out, the case of a good manager, who inspired each of his subordinates to perform to the best of their ability and was an integral and vital part of our administrative team.

Peter Stuart landed at St. Andrew's in 1971, having joined his distinguished engineering skills in Canada in Montreal and then having become the 4th man in King's Edgmont School in Nova Scotia, where he taught and coached First Hockey and oversaw all matters of discipline. At SAC, Peter soon earned the reputation of a superb mathematics teacher, as well as a genuine teacher's respect for his outstanding organizational skills in absolute dedication and his unquestioned integrity. Ten years later, when I assumed my role, Peter was an obvious choice for an Assistant Headmaster's position.

Peter and I have often played our good friend golf game. No odd one out figure out who played who. In one of our many end-of-year sessions, Peter wondered what his role was. "The conscience of the school," I replied. "I really mean that I look back on my this statement, is that Peter has the ability to be diametrically straight forward in his statements — with the result that all of our work is focused on the important issues, without getting away to our own particular biases or weaknesses.

—B.B.

Although Peter has matured over the years, shedding his image as the "young assistant," the fact remains that he has remained his highest principles. Perhaps the most testimony to Peter's extraordinary dimensions can be found in Atlantic. Lost in history is the fact that he arrived at St. Andrew's in 1971, having joined his distinguished engineering skills in Canada in Montreal and then having become the 4th man in King's Edgmont School in Nova Scotia, where he taught and coached First Hockey and oversaw all matters of discipline. At SAC, Peter soon earned the reputation of a superb mathematics teacher, as well as a genuine teacher's respect for his outstanding organizational skills in absolute dedication and his unquestioned integrity. Ten years later, when I assumed my role, Peter was an obvious choice for an Assistant Headmaster's position.

I've only sketched the surface of Peter's attributes. So much could be said of his commitment, his organizational qualities, his personal and professional integrity. I find it impossible to put adequately into words my great gratitude for Peter, who has been the backbone of the school, always available to provide the right answer to any question and, with seemingly effortless skill, able to extract the relevant paper from a pile of papers. St. Andrew's College and I, in particular, owe him an immense debt of gratitude for his unstinting service.

not right" he would make his feelings known, and then try to solve the problem. He seldom becomes ruffled, instead he tends to demonstrate his dislike for inequity. As an administrator, his attention to detail is legend, his skin apparently being so thin that he could feel about one year ahead of the above-said school. He is the perfect conciliator, the first-line mathematics teacher, the sports administrator, the racing enthusiast, the human and mechanical, the academic, the gourmet, the investor, the coach (hockey, track, rugby), the fashion leader, the general boss.

ALL THE BEST: After 28 years at St. Andrew's College assistant headmaster Peter Stuart leaves to pursue the finer things in life, along with his wife Pat he plans to check out the ponies and do some serious travelling.

Ancient House of Stuart gets a new coat of arms

By Andrew Fox

It was announced today in London that a new "coat of arms" has been officially assigned by the Society for Heraldry for the successful career of Peter Stuart.

This new coat of arms has been described as a "coat of arms" in the upper right-hand corner, signifying the long-time of power. The lower right corner has two shoes (one black and one silver) signifying the extent and status of the work he has done. The upper left corner shows the House of Stuart.

The House of Stuart is a symbol of the well-known Stuart characteristic — tolerance. The two silver shoes in the lower right-hand corner signify the extent and status of the work he has done. The upper left corner shows the House of Stuart.

All of the above are set on a simple gold background.

The motto remains unchanged and reads "Gallia est omnia parva." It figures that it comes with the territory.

CHEERS: Derek and Peter share a drop of bubbly.

Colleagues' comments

And what do they have to say about me?

■ A true polymath, Peter combined an immense store of personal knowledge with a light-speed mind and a deep understanding of the human condition. His repertoire of perspectives and observations includes: "You will see change quite differently when you're sitting in a boat looking up at the stars in mid-storm." "You never really know someone until you've had breakfast with them." These pithy observations, which combined with a recommendation of the books of Neville Martin, convinced me early on that this man possessed, above all else, excellent vision.

—Bob Anil

■ Rolling all those bones, was it for the game? The wine? The camaraderie? McDonalds? Only Peter knows for sure.

—Ben Kinney

■ Like a referee in a good hockey game, you'd never know he's there.

—Gary West

■ External External Peter Stuart returns to run expansion work again!

I am very delighted that Peter is returning in September to run Expansion Work '94. Perhaps by October 1994 we'll be able to see the accounts for the Quebec Expansion Work of November '93. Also, much to my delight, Peter has agreed to take over and run SAC LAX '95. The contents of the report at the top of the page of this newspaper should be a testament to his ability to handle the old man — well, one can hardly imagine the damage that will ensue on the unsuspecting skier below!

Valete: Mr. Phil Day

With the departure of the former Head of the French department St. Andrew's thought it had attracted an experienced gentleman in the fading twilight of his productive teaching career. However, Mr. Day showed St. Andrew's that if it thought this master would be content to only bask in the triumph of his former glories until reaching his retirement this year, the College was very much mistaken.

With the energy of a 20 year old, Mr. Day has dazzled all who encounter him with his enthusiasm, energy, and good cheer. The French Department will never be the same for he has energized it into a vibrant and exciting unit.

His zest for the classroom has been only surpassed by his passion for the sports field. In his five years at SAC, this feisty Welshman refereed and coached soccer and rugby and left a legacy of skill, good sportsmanship and love of the game to all his charges.

Mr. Day brought his career at SAC to a new dramatic height when he played the role of a convincing cadaver in this year's FOCUS production, "Procedure".

Mr. Day, we will miss you. Our heartfelt appreciation for the many contributions you have made to the Andrean community. Many happy days ahead.

The consummate school master retires

By Derek Douglas

It was with mixed feelings that the community of St. Andrew's College learned of the retirement, this year, of Assistant Headmaster Peter Stuart. Many are delighted that Stuart, retiring in the peak of condition, will now be able to chase the interests he wishes to pursue. Others, realizing the many and varied contributions made by Stuart, wonder how he can be replaced.

Peter Stuart is really the consummate school master, at all times showing care and concern for both students and his colleagues. When things were "just not right" he would make his feelings known, and then try to solve the problem. He seldom becomes ruffled, instead he tends to demonstrate his dislike for inequity. As an administrator, his attention to detail is legend, his skin apparently being so thin that he could feel about one year ahead of the above-said school. He is the perfect conciliator, the first-line mathematics teacher, the sports administrator, the racing enthusiast, the human and mechanical, the gourmet, the investor, the coach (hockey, track, rugby), the fashion leader, the general boss.

Recently we have learned that Peter, realizing that his complete disappearance from the school might shake the community to widespread symptoms of acute loss, has agreed to return next year to assist with certain co-curricular activities. We feel much relieved.

CHIEFS: Derek and Peter share a drop of bubbly.

Then end of July has finally come. The final deadline is about to pass and the book is done. Yes you heard right, it's only July and the entire book is ready to go to Winnipeg to be printed. This incredible task could not have been completed with the help of my partner Jay. I won't complain about the late nights and long days, as Jay put in many longer nights and weekends in order to complete his sections by the deadline we set for ourselves.

This year's book was different from previous years right from the start. Just look at the cover for proof. Our goal this year was to stress layout design (this was done, because if we stress photos and comments, the book always falls short of its goals). Looking through the book you may notice that not every page is filled to the edges with pictures as has been done in previous years, but rather many of the pages emphasize two or three photos through their layout.

My guess is I should also thank all those who made my job easier, so here goes. I would like to especially thank all those who submitted their articles for the Review ON TIME. Those who submitted something late also deserve recognition, and those who overlooked their duty to submit something also should be noted (as people to remind more often next year).

To the grads I hope you will be able to look back through the book in fifteen to twenty years and feel the book does justice to both your comments and to your year.

And to Mr. Bedard, always remember a change is as good as a rest, so therefore it's better to change the book than to skip a volume.

Ahhh, yes. Another year, another yearbook. However, the 1993-94 S.A.C. yearbook is a little different. When Chris and I sat down to layout the book in May....just kidding...in September, we had a vision of what we wished the yearbook to look like. Hopefully everybody will enjoy the fruits of the yearbook staff's labour.

Even though the yearbook staff was small enough to fit into Mr. Halstead's Suzuki Swift, we had talent just flowing out of our nostrils. However, there were many times when the staff could be caught staring at a blank page wanting to toss it all in so that they could practice up for the annual S.A.C. dart competition.

As I sit back and admire this year's yearbook while enjoying take-out from Mystery Pizza and Chicken, only one thought comes to mind..."Hey, this yearbook's kinda cool!"

Thanks to the almighty powerful Mr. T, who as yearbook advisor, provided the yearbook staff with the much needed support. Special thanks to my better half, Chris Foster, who I'm sure knows the meaning of the zero hour sleep deprivation theory. So, as Mr. Treasure comes into the room screaming "No more colour pages" I would like the reader of this comment to close their eyes...no peeking...and think of a nice tropical island where the only thing to drink are margarita's and screaming orgasms because that's where I am right now. REVIEW

Every boy during his life at St. Andrew's belongs to a clan; the clans are named after the colourful family tribes of ancient Scotland. During the year our clans compete head-to-head in the cross-country run, the intramural track and field meet, and in a one-act play festival.

There are three areas in which points can be gained toward the winning in the Upper School of the Housser Trophy: academics, extracurricular activities, and SAC representative sports teams.

Clan colours second class are presented to students who have earned over 150 points over their senior years. First class colours go to those who have exceeded 250 points and finally, a small number of students earn their bar to first colours by achieving well in excess of 350 points.

Public presentation of these awards takes place on St. Andrew's Day at the end of November and at a special assembly near the end of the school year. This year our guests of honour at the St. Andrew's Day banquet were Cameron Williams and Charles "Burley" Edwards, both of the class of 1970.

In his after dinner remarks Cam pointed out that you don't have to be a first team athlete to benefit from and to treasure the Andean experience. We were also fortunate to be entertained that evening by Bob and June Smith and Harry Humberside who played selections on pipes and drums.

At this year's special assembly Mr. Charlie Manchec, of our school Board of Governors, presented colours to clan award winners. Our congratulations to the winners, not only for distinguishing themselves personally, but also for contributing to the betterment of their clan and school.

Upper School

This year's Housser Trophy was won by Leslie Clan or New House. Although they were narrowly beaten in the cross-country run by Ramsey and Sifton it was on the academic front that this year's competitions was ultimately decided. Twenty-one of their 59 students had first class honours: Messrs. Burke, Dowling, Catrall, Lueng, and Dadson led the way, with contributions on all fronts from Messrs. McFarlane, Etherington, Lewis and Lawlor. Clan leaders Jason Reid and Tim Horton accepted the cup from Board member John Housser.

R. J. Ray, Coordinator

SAC Debating is 50 Andreans who love to argue, to speak in public, to acquire verbal dexterity and mental proficiency, even to show off.

At SAC debating is an extra-curricular activity, but it is also a para-academic activity and this explains why Mr. Ray, who directs our debating program, also speaks for debating at the academic department head level. We are fortunate also to have Mr. Arril and Mr. Timms providing regular assistance.

This year's president was Leo Arhanic who has built up impressive credentials over his years of membership. Assisting Leo as Vice was Jason Worry who carries on a distinguished family tradition in debating. It's hard to imagine our program without a Worry around! That is to say that he was a reliable link and a steady contributor at all times. Rounding out the executive were Robert Burke, Wallace Yuen and Jonathan Hood each of whom were busy and productive.

Key seniors were: Kurt Alfrey, Neil Bruce, Julian Dowling, Tim Horton, Ryan Lawlor and Jonathan Parker. Next come the occasionally active seniors: Ken Cho, Jed Dadson, Mark Harvey, Chris Foster, Dan Gauvin, Jan Lutzen, Johan Nusaputra, Doug Mackenzie, Will McGuigan, Jay Shah, Ben Thwaites, Alfredo Villegas and Mark Wilson.

It is with the intermediates, those presently in grade ten and eleven, that the future resides. The busiest intermediates this year were Anwar Anjum, Andrew Ipekian, Adrian Nusaputra, Stephen Small, Christopher Stock and Simon Williams. The occasionals at this level whom we have to bring fully into the mainstream were: Chris Abraham, Jameel Bandali, Brad Livingstone, Rob Lowes, Ian McGuigan, Ed Mercer and Stefan Tuzi.

All juniors happily receive a first taste of debating in their communications classes with Mr. Timms and Mr. Ray. Among the highlights of this year were the special activities we were able to create for some of our most promising juniors: Alain Boudreau, Brook Dyson, James Lau, Jason Lord, Angus Wai and Matt Ward. Also coming along nicely are Adam Bradley, Chris Kinch, Ben Rogers and Iain Rogers.

These are the 50 Andreans whose lives were touched by debating and who in turn gave our program its dynamism.

First the Fulford

When all was said and done, we stood third out of the nineteen schools, just one point out of second, the spot held by Crescent, who showed what an asset they will be to our league. Unquestionably in first place was U.T.S. Our congratulations to them and to their coach Mr. Kitchen.

Our objective for the year was more than fulfilled. Congratulations to all who took part and let others know that St. Andrew's was not to be taken lightly.

Tournaments Galore

We sent teams to events which were held at St. Clement's, Bishop Strachan, Grenville Christian, Toronto French, St. George's Lawrence Park for the OSDU Regionals and Fr. Michael Goetz for a taste of the Pro-Con Debate League. Outstanding memories were the long drive to Brockville with Mr. Arril, Tim Horton's strong performance at T.F.S. and Kurt Alfrey's at S.G.C. where we entered three teams and came very close to bringing home the Challenge Saucer.

An annual feature of our program is the friendly rivalry over who gets to hold the Headmasters' Cup for the ensuing year. The morning debate in front of their school featured Jason Worry and Leo Arhanic. By a split decision Julian Dowling and Kurt Alfrey prevailed in the afternoon, but on points over the whole day, the Cup remained in Toronto. It was a highly enjoyable day--and hat's off to T.F.S. We'll have at them again next year.

All of OSDU comes to Aurora

We are proud to be affiliated with the Ontario Student Debating Union. Both Mr. Ray and Mr. Joe Younder, who teaches at Brebeuf College School in Willowdale, live in Aurora and serve on the Provincial Executive of OSDU.

Aurora was the host town for this year's Provincial Seminar which brings together 84 of the top debaters and their coaches from across the province in all three language categories. Both Mr. Arril and Ms. Johanne Plante served on the organizing committee.

Two students from SAC were able to take part in the debating, Kurt Alfrey in English and Doug Mackenzie in the bilingual category. Even though our school was still on March break eight of our club members rallied around to help out as stats keepers, pipers, welcomers and the like.

The theme issue for the weekend was whether our provincial government should be deriving revenue from games of chance and whether gambling was harmful to society and the debates were very spirited indeed. Mr. Ray and Mr. Younder recruited well over a hundred judges--many friends, parents and former students responded to the call. From all reports the weekend was a huge success on all fronts.

SAC Debates out of Province

In October the International Public Speaking Tournament for Independent Schools was held at King's-Edgehill School and brought together excellent speakers from England, America, Bermuda, Cyprus and all parts of Canada. Mr. Ray and Mr. Arril were both committed to soccer and guidance events at the time so it fell to Mr. David Dawson to accompany our team of Neil Bruce, Robert Burke and Leo Arhanic to Nova Scotia.

Robert's performance there earned him the right to be included in the team representing Ontario at a subsequent tournament held in January in Winnipeg. Robert has been chosen to take part in a special study course during this summer at Oxford University. Special praise to him for raising our profile and being a good ambassador.

Bermuda Comes to Us

Again this was something special for our Juniors. Bermuda was anxious to give four of its outstanding junior debaters both boys and girls an opportunity off-island, so we offered to be their hosts for a few days of debating, living and sightseeing. Thanks to the Ash, Boudreau, Lord, Newton and Wettlaufer families for opening their homes. In addition they sent three of their coaches to take advantage of coaching workshops with Mr. Ray. The days they spent with us were brilliant and sunny. They watched our cadet corps on parade and even saw an early Blue Jays game. We debated both with them and against them and became fast friends. In every way the visit was a great success and we look forward to the day when we can accept their invitation to come and visit with them on their beautiful island.

This year included other social events which added to the fun of it all. Our junior debaters exchanged visits with their counterparts from Cambridge and our seniors welcomed Ms. Wrobel and the girls from Havergal in January. In May as our last activity for the season we went to visit with them.

And Public Speaking Too !

Nowadays debaters and actors have an increasing number of opportunities to test their wings in the various kinds of public speaking. The team that went to N.S. has already been mentioned. Mr. Arril took three of our juniors to a United Nations speaking contest sponsored by the Odd Fellows. The number of entries far exceeded last year's field and the judging didn't finish until close to midnight! Also this year we were invited to Branksome Hall for a new tournament to pay tribute to retiring coach Ms. Nora McRae. We sent both a junior and senior team, the latter including Jed Dadson who has been "in the offing" for quite a while.

For several years now in the absence of an International Affairs club we have assumed responsibility for entering two delegations into SOMA, the Southern Ontario Model Assembly at Hart House. This year our two main delegations were chosen from Mr. Myrans' Politics classes and they acquitted themselves well. As well we entered Jason Worry and Jay Shah who weren't in this group and they led the German delegation.

In addition the spring term offers two special public speaking occasions, the Churchill Medals and Shakespeare on the Platform, to which the school can send but one representative. Both cater to the competitor who has particular dramatic talents and our entry for both events this year was Jonathan Parker. He did a good job and it is to be hoped that he will have another go next time.

Sharing Out the Honours

The patron of OSDU is the Lieutenant Governor, his Honour Henry R. Jackman and in late May he invited a cross-section of Ontario debaters, including eight from SAC, to a reception at his chambers in Queen's Park. Mr. Younder and Mr. Ray received special awards for their convening of the Provincials; James Lau and Brook Dyson were presented to his Honour because they had been part of our province's team at a national event. Acting as aide-de-camp to the Lt. Governor on this occasion was John D. Stewart, a former debater at St. Andrew's.

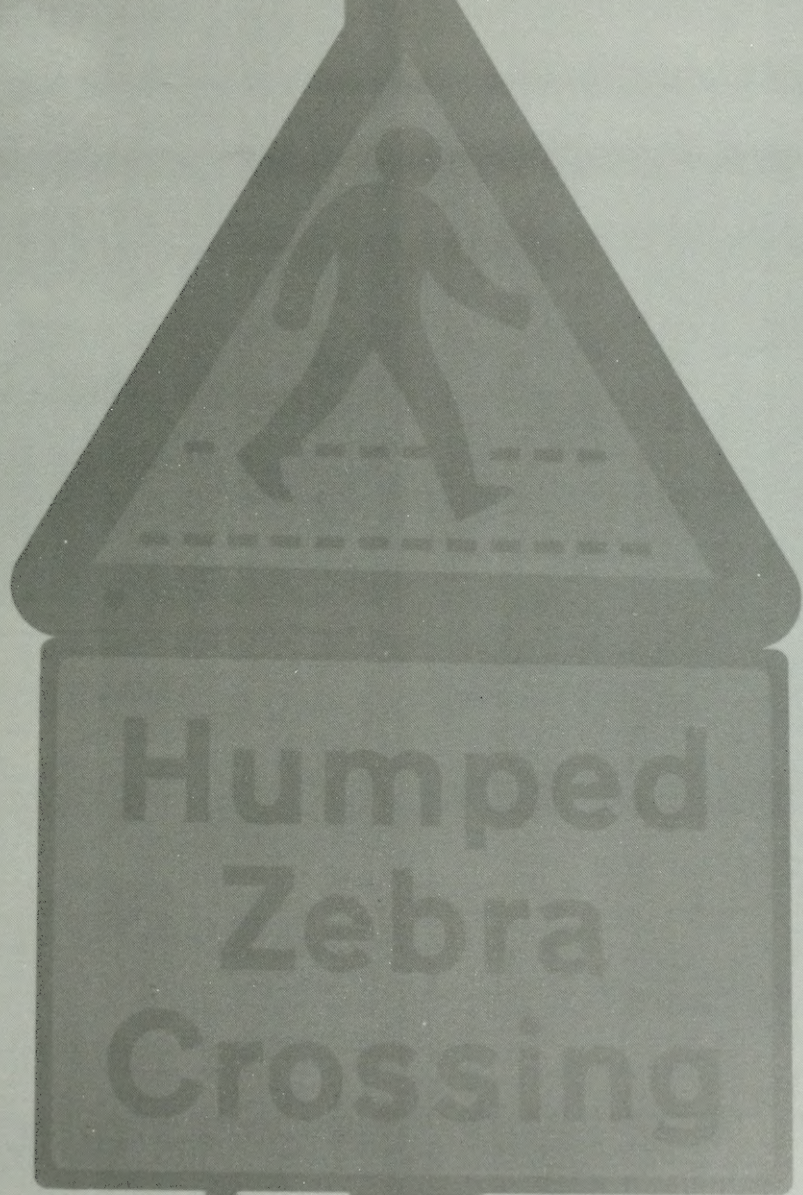

The balance of the honours are distributed on Prize Day. Simon Williams received the Brian Mitchell Trophy for his contribution to intermediate debating over the past couple of years. The Craig Leslie Trophy was shared between Wallace Yuen, one of the youngest boys ever to graduate from St. Andrew's, and Kurt Alfrey, who did more debating in just one year than anyone else I can recall over many years. Finally the Brooks Trophy for an outstanding contribution to the senior program went to a very fine President, Leo Arhanic.

One of Leo's last duties was to assist in assembling the core of next year's executive. We are happy that Jason Worry will be continuing his term as Vice President and that Robert Burke will be our new President. The balance of the slate will be filled out in the fall. The future looks rosy, but that bright potential will only be really fulfilled if a goodly number of those who are presently looking on decide to take the plunge and to get involved. The opportunities for growth and fun are tremendous, but we need you to be a part of it all!

HEADMASTER'S PRIZE DAY SPEECH

June 12, 1994

Mr. Matthews, Members of the Board of Governors, Colleagues, Parents, Students and Friends of the School:

A recent survey asked people what they dreaded most. Easily top of the list, with forty-one percent, was "having to make a speech". Second, a long way behind, with nineteen percent was fear of death".

Somehow, that first statistic surprised me because I felt that listening to a speech might top the list. However, whatever your opinion, clearly 'a fate worse than death' awaits both you and me.

The setting of St. Andrew's College is both beautiful and serene. Indeed, it is a sheltered place compared to the world outside, but in its own terms, it has had a busy and exciting year. A full list of events, sporting fixtures and happenings would be interminable, but I can affirm that the College is in very good heart academically and philosophically as we strive to produce the ALL-ROUND CITIZEN, THE COMPLETE MAN. However, I would be remiss not to underline at least a few of the highlights from the past school year.

You will see by the number of scholars we have this year that academics are priority number one in the minds of the students.

Worthy of mention is the prestigious scholarship granted to Robert Burke for summer study at Oxford University in England. During the month of July, Robert will be sharing classroom and activity time with some of the most gifted high school students from all over the world. Among his other accomplishments during this year, Robert received the top award in the Software Development contest conducted by Guelph University for his presentation entitled '3D world'.

The prize for best delegation at the Southern Ontario Model U.N. Assembly went to the St. Andrew's team of Tim Horton and Andrew Kasianenko. Incidentally, they represented the Ukraine.

Ryan Lawlor and Benjamin Thwaites won the distinction as the most outstanding delegation at the Royal Commonwealth Society Student Forum competition held in Ottawa. More than 50 schools from across the nation competed for this honour.

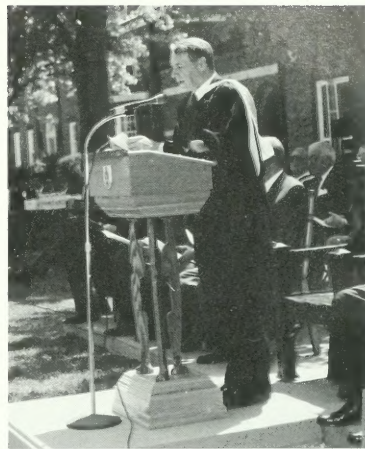

From Grade 7 to Grade 13, we participated successfully in provincial and national mathematics contests in larger numbers than ever. While we consistently ranked in the top quintile of all high schools in Canada, one of our students, Alan Wong, distinguished himself by securing a 28th place out of 29,914 contestants.

In athletics, at the first team level, S.A.C. won the Independent School Championship in Soccer and Track and Field (the latter for the 5th straight year), and once again, our Hockey team dominated the Metropolitan Toronto rankings all season long, reaching the round of eight in the Provincial championships.

Although there are no official titles at any other level except the first team level, we can boast that our 51 teams in 19 different sports won more than their share of games and enhanced the school's reputation in matters of fair play and sportsmanship.

The productions of Charlie's Aunt, the Man of La Mancha and the record setting 10 plays in the Arts Festival, Focus, attest to the vibrancy of Drama in our school activities. It is also during Focus that we were treated to unforgettable musical performances and outstanding works of art by our students and staff.

Other para-academic and extra-curricular activities are worthy of mention. One of them, the Weekend Programme, under Bob Perrier's direction, was again very well received and highly attended; it is now an integral part of our structure. Also on our regular agenda are the Social Awareness presentations organized by the Ladies' Guild. They address adolescent issues, such as smoking, drinking and driving, and the prevention of AIDS. In March, St. Andrew's hosted the annual provincial Debating Championships under the leadership of Mr. Rupert Ray. Our thanks to the parents and friends who acted as judges on this occasion. For the second time in 3 years, 6 students and 2 teachers took part in a 6 week expedition to Nepal under the auspices of Sir Edmund Hillary. They helped the Sherpas complete the construction of a monastery in Cap Mandu. Finally, in a lighter vein, we were all amused by the hilarious countenance of our 12 volunteers at the Mayfest hypnosis session.

Even in such a brief survey of the school year, it is surely right to stress how much all members of the College owe to those who contribute in their several ways to the smooth running of this institution. At this time, I should like to underline specifically the untold voluntary contributions of the Board of Governors and its Chairman, Mr. Peter Harris, and thank the Development Office, the Bursar's Office, the Ladies' Guild, the College secretaries, the heads of food services and maintenance, and all who help them. It is through the harmonious relationship of so many men and women that the school becomes more than a mere boarding-house, emerging rather as a genuine community.

St. Andrew's College has indeed been blessed this year. Graham Towers, class of 1913, the first Governor of the Bank of Canada, and his wife, Mary, made St. Andrew's the major beneficiary of their estate. In order to recognize their bequest, the Board of Governors recently named our library the Towers Library. Also, through their estate, Violet and Kendall Bennett, long-time friends of the school, have provided significant funding for scholarships and bursaries for future local students.

Prize Day, with the graduation each spring of another crop of young Andreans is, for me, a reminder of the rapid passage of time. This year, with some significant comings and goings in the Masters' CommonRoom, that feeling of "time flying - never to return", to quote Virgil, is, if anything, even more pronounced.

The beginning of the winter saw the installation of our new Bursar, Douglas Campbell. We welcome him and his charming wife, Donna, to their first prizegiving at St. Andrew's.

Five years ago, the language department was in need of new direction, with the departure of its former Head. Defying modern practices, we attracted an experienced gentleman in the twilight of his productive teaching career. With the energy of a 20 year old, - even two weeks ago he was running up and down the rugby field in a refereeing capacity - Phil Day energized the French department into a vibrant unit and was the driving force behind the re-introduction of Spanish. Phil has coached soccer and rugby and has been a constant force on our Race Relations Committee. Some will remember Phil as a consummate actor who brought his stage credits to a dramatic conclusion a few weeks ago during Focus, when he played the role of a convincing cadaver and willing autopsy candidate in a production entitled 'Procedure'. May happy days lie ahead for Phil and his wife, Sheryl.

Some of you may recall the days when the Toronto Argonauts held their pre-season training camp on our Lower fields. Although, financially, this venture wasn't an unmitigated success, it eventually paid handsome dividends when S.A.C. attracted one of the assistant-coaches who would dispense professionalism to our First Football team for the next 21 years. This past November, the school community, including present parents, present athletes and a significant number of Old Boys paid tribute to Gord and Joan Ackerman for their outstanding contributions to generations of Andreans.

Be it on the football field, the basketball courts, the athletic stores, the golf fairways or even in the keyboarding classes, Gord's endless enthusiasm and authoritative presence never failed to evoke emotions and to leave his words firmly etched in everyone's consciousness. Gord's memory has been encapsulated in a spectacular scoreboard erected at the West side of the Gordon Ackerman football field. Gord and Joan, may you enjoy your well-earned retirement.

It would be hard to imagine two more diametrically different personalities than mine and that of the Assistant-Headmaster in charge of Administration. As is often the case in a good marriage, opposites inspire each other and somehow manage to form an indelible bond. This is how I choose to qualify an integral and vital part of our administrative team.

Peter Stuart began his St. Andrew's career in 1971, having plied his British-honed engineering skills at Canadair in Montreal, and then having become the #2 man at King's Edgehill School in Nova Scotia, where he taught, coached First Hockey and oversaw discipline. At S.A.C., Peter soon earned the reputation of a superb mathematics teacher while gaining everyone's respect for his outstanding organizational skills, his absolute dedication and his unquestioned integrity. Ten years later, when I assumed my present role, Peter was an obvious choice for an Assistant-Headmaster's position.

I find it impossible to put adequately into words my deep gratitude to Peter. With his mastery of all the diverse paraphernalia of College business, he has been the linchpin of the school, always available to provide a solution to any conundrum and with seemingly unerring skill, to address the heart of any matter. St. Andrew's College, and I, in particular, owe Peter an immense debt of gratitude for his unstinting service. A special thanks to Peter's wife, Pat, for her assistance and support at a myriad of school functions.

The situation is always the same; every graduating class faces an uncertain and increasingly difficult world, and because they are the graduating class, they are asked to take up the challenge of future leadership and to succeed where often their elders have failed.

I'm afraid that today is not going to be much different. These are trying times, the future is full of uncertainties - and yes I am going to suggest that you do something about it.

Today's challenges seem so complex that it is virtually impossible to select any one of them as the most important. Is it war, terrorism, the AIDS epidemic, riot, famine, the economy, the environment or simply uncertainty? Time doesn't allow me to do any more than list ten headlines of the past few weeks:

1. Rwanda's killing fields
2. Schools are turning into danger zones
3. Woman slain in Just Desserts Robbery
4. Drug Barons control Columbia
5. Atrocities in Yugoslavia
6. Family breakup more prevalent
7. Independence in Quebec would be damaging for everyone
8. North Korea has developed an atomic bomb
9. Death, not Freedom, in Haiti
10. IRA Bombing Continues in London

But all is not despair.

1. Freedom in South Africa
2. Forty million contributed to Food Aid
3. Doctors cheer as twins separated
4. D Day - Normandy's heroes honoured
5. Peace in Palestine

You will note I listed ten troublesome headlines and only five hopeful ones. It appears, therefore, that the world is twice as bad as it is good, and although I do not believe that, it is you who must try to rectify this. You may reasonably ask, "Why me?" The answer is: because you have had the opportunity to learn, to live in freedom, and you are also gifted. In addition, you are better prepared than most; you are distinguished from graduates of other schools because you are about to graduate from here. Since your sample of schools attended is small, you may think that most schools are like St. Andrew's. The facts do not support this; few schools have the mix of faculty and students that St. Andrew's has; few schools have the same commitment to its mission that we have, and fewer still have the facilities that we have. However, perhaps I sound too idealistic. St. Andrew's is not perfect, everything here has not been to your satisfaction. St. Andrew's is an institution made up of people and people are subject to error. This is not Utopia. But reserve your judgement on our blemishes because from a distance of time and space your Alma Mater will seem a beautiful and elusive experience. Even King Arthur's Round Table concept had flaws. And this leads me to the crux of what I want to say to you this afternoon.

King Arthur and his Round Table have been evoked many times in the centuries since the balladeers of medieval England first told of the legendary King and the brief golden age over which he presided in Camelot. To Mark Twain, Camelot was a place where religions and economic oppression had to be overthrown by individual integrity and ingenuity. To T.H. White, Camelot was a place where one man's dreams of a better world was what really mattered. Thirty years ago, the musical Camelot, somehow managed to blend these themes into a popular entertainment that was also unusually thought provoking.

The climax of the musical comes when Arthur realizes that his dream of a just and ordered society is crumbling. This dream is crumbling because human weakness has overpowered the beauty and strength of an ideal of justice whose time has not yet come. Arthur is on a battlefield, and knows he is doomed to defeat. Those whom he most loved and trusted have deceived him. His own death is a certainty. Camelot is about to end. But then a young boy, Tom Warwick, unnoticed until that moment, suddenly comes forward to tell Arthur that he shares his dream of Camelot, that he has listened, and understood and that he has the courage to keep the dream alive.

King Arthur suddenly realizes that his dream could still come true. His hope rests in young people like Tom Warwick who would carry the dream forward. Young people would believe that right made might, not might made right, that being reasonable was not a weakness, that a just society was possible.

Arthur calls out, quote "Tom Warwick, if you believe, do not die on this battlefield because Camelot would die with you. As your king, I command you, keep the dream alive. Run, Tom Warwick, run!" End of quote.

You, the 'Class of '94' must become the Tom Warwicks of St. Andrew's College. The task will not be easy. Tom only had to run to every village and farm in England; you must run to every city and nation on this planet. Tom kept King Arthur's dreams alive. You must keep St. Andrew's dreams alive:

- That people must be judged by their intellect, not the loudness of their voices.
- That people must be judged by their character and not the colour of their skin.
- That women must be judged by what they contribute, not by sexist standards.
- That people of different religions can respect the convictions of others.
- That people of different nationalities can live together.
- That cultures are not right or wrong, they are simply different.

Tell them you share this dream. You will meet doubters, haters, bigots and war-mongers, but tell them you lived life as it could be. Tell them that you shared at St. Andrew's College the pride of your differences and the joy of your togetherness. Keep this dream alive. (Run, 'Class of '94', run!)

Valedictory Address

Head Prefect: John Delfin

Prizeday June 1994

Mr. Chairman, members of the Board, Mr. Bedard, masters, guests and fellow Andreans.

I never thought that this day would pass and now that it is here, I don't want it to end.

The decision to come to St. Andrew's wasn't really mine but I'm glad I have experienced it. I wanted to be with my friends from grade school. I remember the reactions I got when I told them where I was going: "College? You mean you're skipping high school?", "Boarding school? What did you do wrong?", "What do you mean 'No girls?'" and the ever-famous "Don't your parents love you?". Well, let me just say that I had my doubts about the school when I came in grade nine, now at the end of grade 13 my doubts are gone.

At first glance, St. Andrew's is just a school (a good school but just a school). To see what the school is really about you have to look deeper. The school is a community. We learn how to live with other people, we learn how to discipline ourselves and we learn independence. These are things that we will use to our advantage for the rest of our lives. The people in the school community become our second family. We have our "parents" in our headmaster, masters and support staff, who guide us, teach us, and tidy our living environments, but above all we have our brothers.

These are the people with whom we have lived and grown. These are the people with whom we have gone through puberty. These are the people with whom we have shopped with on the dance floor. Without my brothers, there would have been no sods, no wing-nites, no all-you-can-eat Pizza Hut dinners, no Subway runs, no Slushie runs, no bowling on Friday nights, no 90210-Melrose nights, no beatings, no snow-football, no Crusties, no General Lee and no Yanis. Without my brothers I would have not made it through high school.

The past year was one of victories and defeats, but never-the-less, a year to remember. Our soccer team was dominant, becoming the ISSA soccer champions, while the football team managed to knockout Coach while playing UCC. Our track team won its amazing fifth OFFSA championship in a row this spring.

Besides sports, as usual our academics were excellent. We had a number of top class debaters representing our school in many debating tournaments at our school and in Ottawa, Kingston and other parts of the province. We sent our second expedition to Nepal to aid with the Sir Edmund Hillary Foundation. Our arts program was once again nothing short of amazing. In the fall, Mr. Scouler put on an excellent production called Charley's Aunt, we also had a top-notch musical put together by the Clements called Man of LaMancha. To top it off we had a festival of the arts (known as Focus) in the spring giving the members of the community to display their artistic talents.

It was definitely a year to remember in many aspects. Without the help of many people these things would not been able to happen.

On behalf of the students and graduating class of '94, I would like to thank some people to which all of this is possible.

I know the sacrifices my family has made to send me here. My parents and sisters have always been behind me in whatever I did. I know that they are there and I thank them. Thank you all the parents and families. You have put faith, love and effort into the opportunities you have given us.

To the masters and Headmaster, Thank you for all of the hard work that you have put into our courses so that we learned as much as we did. Also not only for being teachers, but our coaches, duty-masters, advisors and friends. You are the reason why St. Andrew's is the best in the world.

To Coach, Mr. Day and Mr. Stuart, good luck on the golf courses sinking hole-in-one after hole-in-one, on the beach bronzing your bodies or what ever else you do as you enjoy your years of retirement. You both have made your marks on the school and it's people. To the support and kitchen staff Your jobs are not often acknowledged, but they are not unnoticed. You are the people who cleaned our houses when we didn't and who cooked our meals. We might complain sometimes but we thank you. My prefects I'd like to thank you for all of the work that you have put into Homecoming, Mayfest and all the other school activities. Without you, I would be lost. We made changes, took apart stages, got hot air balloons and made the year exciting. For the returning Andreans, keep the spirit of the school and don't let it go. Use your time here to the fullest for it won't last long. For the graduates, we have met our challenges here. After today we will become St. Andrew's College old boys. We will meet new challenges in the next year and the years after that, but we will forever remain brothers and Andreans. It is hard to believe that our time is over. To all my other friends, especially my roommates and the 101 posse, thank you for being here. I love you and I always will. You made the time fly. I'd like to leave you with a quote from a song that is very special. It came to me after exams, listening to it outside, in the crisp night air by the fire. We were looking up at the sky, watching for shooting stars, reminiscing about our years at St. Andrew's. To me it is what the Graduating Class of '94 is all about.

LATE ON THURSDAY NIGHT, LUIGI WAS HAVING A MENTAL BLOCK. UNABLE TO THINK OF A NEW WAY OF PREPARING FISH FOR AN 'ALL YOU CAN EAT SUPGOABOARD', LUIGI CRAWLED INTO A BALL AND BEGAN CRYING. AT THIS TIME, MR. KINNEY ENTERED INTO THE KITCHEN LOOKING FOR A FOURTH HELPING OF DINNER AND STUMBLED ACROSS LUIGI. UPON HEARING THE DILEMMA, MR. KINNEY WAS MORE THAN HAPPY TO SACRIFICE THE FISH FROM THE GRADE 10 BIOLOGY CLASS. DINNER WAS A COMPLETE SUCCESS THE NEXT NIGHT AND LUIGI GAVE MR. KINNEY A BIG PAT-ON-THE-BACK.
